ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Q. Why is badger hair considered so desirable for a shaving brush?—P. R. J.
A. Among the coarser fibers, badger hair has unusual length and strength and is resistant to abrasion. It is the shape of the badger hair fibers, however, which makes them so desirable for use in a shaving brush. Each hair has an enlarged tip so that the latter stays on the brush well and is easily distributed.

Q. Why in the old days were barns always painted red?—G. T. W.
A. According to paint experts red paint made from red oxide of iron was cheapest and most easily obtained. Now paints in other colors are as cheap and easily obtainable as red.

Q. Who painted "Pinkie," the companion piece to Gainsborough's "Blue Boy"?—R. S. F.
A. The portrait "Pinkie" was executed by Sir Thomas Lawrence.

Q. How often should a watch be wound?—R. N. H.
A. The National Bureau of Standards says that, in general, watches will run at a more uniform rate if wound regularly each day, preferably in the morning so that the spring will be nearly wound during most of the day. If allowed to run down often, the rate is very apt to change.

Q. Had the Wright brothers a patent on their first airplane propeller?—G. E. K.
A. The Wright brothers did not have a patent on the propeller on the first airplane which they flew in 1903. The first patent on an airplane propeller was No. 821,393, granted May 22, 1906.

Q. Where and when was Brig. Gen. Graham, President Truman's physician, born?—M. MacA.
A. Brig. Gen. Wallace A. Graham was born in Highland, Kan., Oct. 9, 1910.

Q. Is there any limit on the amount of F and G bonds that an individual may purchase?—T. R. N.
A. One individual may purchase $100,000 of either F or G bonds or of both. He cannot purchase $100,000 of each in any one year.

Let's Explore Your Mind

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

IS A WOMAN'S FACE MORE EXPRESSIVE THAN A MAN'S?

Booth, Irving, etc., but it is doubtful that any have ever risen to the heights of Duse, Rachel, Siddons, Bernhardt and many others. Men have much more of a "poker face" than women.

Answer to Question No. 2

No. Columbia U. psychologist Arthur Gates believes that when a man says he's hoing potatoes as a boy developed his will power, or working at mathematics, when he hated it, made his mind strong, he is in error. Hoing potatoes develops potato-hoing will power—but not necessarily will power to work when you are tired or save your money or quit drinking. Will power is a set of habits. Of course the more habits of doing the right thing, whether you wish to or not, does develop will power in more directions.

Answer to Question No. 3

No. Mechanical ability is strongly inherited, but inventors require more than mere mechanical ability—creative imagination, passion for work, mental concentration, etc. Rarely does any son of an inventor inherit all of his father's qualities.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

America's Card Authority.

TODAY'S hand may not seem very exciting when put down on paper, but I know from my own experience just how Mrs. W. L. Byers Jr. of Brownsville, Pa., felt when her partner jumped to six spades. The hand was sent to me by Mrs. Byers' partner, Harry O. Shockey, secretary of the Fayette County Bridge Club, Uniontown, Pa.

Mr. Shockey directs tournaments at the Tiltow Hotel in Uniontown and the Monongahela Hotel in Brownsville. This hand came up at Brownsville. Shockey debated a long time as to whether to open the bidding with two diamonds or one diamond, and finally decided to stick to the old rule not to use a two-bid in a minor suit with more than two losers. When his partner in the East bid a spade, he felt there was no way to tell her what type of hand he had, so he simply jumped to six spades.

After South's opening lead of the jack of hearts the dummy went down and Mrs. Byers felt better. She won the trick with the king of hearts, and as she had to drop the queen of spades doubtless, she cashed the ace and king of spades. When the queen dropped there was no problem to make six.

She discarded the ten of diamonds on dummy's good heart and, deciding that North must have the ace of diamonds to trumpify his double, she led the king of diamonds from dummy. When North failed to cover she discarded a club. Thus she made her contract redoubled with an overtrick.

NEW YORK MEDICAL COL-

LEGE believes Americans could get along on a diet of 900 calories a day, as compared to the 3000 calories plus that most Americans are eating to-day.

The secret, says the experts, is balance in the diet, which makes up for the small caloric content.

The doctors emphasize, however, that the "survival diet" would be used only in case of atomic war or other disaster curtailing our food supply. Certainly, it sounds unattractive. It isn't the sort of thing Americans would wish off on hungry people abroad, nor would we ever get that tough in the United States, permanently, a lot of us won't care to stick around to see how history turns out.—Omaha World Herald.

SENATOR SOAPER SAYS:

After it was proved that planes couldn't go faster than sound they went ahead and did anyway. And they call an Alabama Governor impossible; but there he is.

A statistic now circulating has the typical American male buying 4.3 hats a year. And what could be cuter for the Easter parade than that 3-number with a flower or two attached.

After a couple of tough identifications mysteries on the Ralph Edwards show, how about a breather? Like, who's the running man? Answer—MacArthur.

An opportunist is one who, being given a bum steer, lays in some buns and opens a hamburger stand.
