Women in U. S. Service

ONE WAY of not strengthening our national defense is sharply illustrated by the 26-to-1 vote of the House armed serv-ices committee against a Senate manent part of our military and naval establishments. This ac-tion to deprive our forces of women clerks, typists, telephone operators and messengers is the more incomprehensible in view of the serious shortages Presi-dent Truman has called on Con-gress to fill. gress to fill.

The proposal of Defense Secretary Forrestal for favorable action in this matter had over-whelming support in the Senate, where not one argument was ad-vanced against it. It has the indorsement of former Chief of Staff Gen. Elsenhower and the heads of all the armed services. Plenty of women stand ready to enlist. Yet the House commit-te now seeks to put them in the Reserve Corps, subject to ac-tive duty if called upon. This committee decision should have retary Forrestal for favorable prompt reconsideration. The WACS, the WAVES, the WAFS and Women Marines
