Answer to Question No. 1 False. Hatred poisons love. True, when some timid women find they are failing in love with a man, they build up first, a fear he will not return their love, and second, a hatred—so if he does not, they can tell them-selves they did not love him aft-er all. But this is not a "mar-velous love affair." If he does accept them, all these complexes fade like magic. Answer to Question No. 2 Answer to Question No. 2

By Dick Turner

Answer to question No. 2 No. The two loneliest places in the world are in a crowd where you know no one, and in a crowd where you know every-body. Where you don't know anybody, Where you don't know any-body you see others having a good time and you think, "Poor me, I don't know a soul." If you know everybody, you think, "Poor me, they don't know the troubles I have and I don't dare tell them." Lonellness comes from self-pity, whether in a crowd or in a desert. Answer to Question No. 3

Answer to Question No. 3 Yes, get interested in a lot of things. Carry a small pencil and pad and jot down a word or two when you hear or read anything, —either a funny story or a po-litical argument. One word often brings back the whole thing.
