SENATOR SOAPER SAYS:

Then there was the midwest-ern flood sufferer who found solace in the discovery that he owned an archipelago. "A blending of new conveniences and older comforts is the architects' aim." Uh huh—and have you tried visualizing a rocking-chair in the chrome-and-enamel surgery called the modern kitchen?

A national weekly famed for fresh slants and newly discovered truths comes up with a piece entitled "Political platforms are the bunk"—a nice change of pace. In Cleveland a homing pigeon pulled in nine years after a race was over. With a tall story, no doubt, of sitting up with the sick dove of peace.

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

Q. What states had the highest and lowest percentages of rejections for physical reasons in World War II?—F. B. A. In 1945 a selective service survey was published showing the rejection rates per 100 registrants for the period from February through August 1943. The state having the highest rejection rate was North Carolina, 56.8 per 100 registrants. Oregon had a rate of 24.4 per 100, the lowest rejection rate among the states.

Q. How many hobbies are followed by the people of this country?—K. C. A. Last year at the Hobby, Crafts and Science Show there were 175 exhibits which represented about every known hobby of men, women and children.

Q. Was James Whitcomb Riley's poem "Little Orphan Annie" ever published under another title?—G. K. P. A. The poem familiarly known as "Little Orphan Annie" was first published in the Indianapolis Journal. It appeared on Nov. 15, 1885 under the title "The Elf Child." This poem was once also entitled "Little Orphan Annie."

Q. In dog racing how does a futurity track differ from a quarter-mile track?—H. F. H. A. A futurity track is 1485 feet from wire to wire, or around the track. A quarter-mile track is 1320 feet from wire to wire, or around the track. Quarter-mile tracks run futurity distance races but their starting boxes are placed in different locations from those on futurity tracks.

Q. What is the largest number of children that have been born at a single birth?—C. V. A. A. Exact records are not available. Although there is reference to an Italian woman of the Middle Ages who first had nine and then 11 children at a single birth, these figures cannot be substantiated. The limit is probably six. There is an authentic case of sextuplets in 1888 and another in 1903. A report of septuplets has not been verified.

Q. To circumvent the recording ban, a crooner sings while other crooners hum the accompaniment. And if Petrillo really dislikes music, as some suspect, he'll love it. "We can only go where atom research leads," a savant confesses grimly. Funny thing about science: It harnesses the little fellow, but can't make it back up. Reciprocity is where Chicago cedes the great party conventions this year to Philly and takes over Philadelphia's old spots in the baseball standings. A comparison of world politics with farming condition brings to light a remarkable state of affairs. There is, it seems, more haywire than hay.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

Bridge game diagram showing a hand with cards and a score table.

Harry J. Fishbein of New York is one of the most popular bridge experts in the country, but there is one young lady, Miss Gloria Fishbein, who thinks that daddy is the only good bridge player. She never congratulates him for winning because she just expects him to win.

Gloria's engagement to Dr. J. Harry Katz was announced recently. When I asked Fishbein if the doctor plays bridge, he said, "Here is a hand he played—judge for yourself."

If the doctor played this hand as well as Harry said he did, he certainly is a good bridge player and may easily displace the experts.

The bidding shown is just as Fishbein gave it to me. The opening heart lead was won by Dr. Katz with the ace, and before pulling even one round of trump he led the queen of clubs. East did not cover but the doctor took the finesse anyway and when it held, he led a small club and finessed dummy's ten-spot.

As his only hope of making the hand was to find the clubs split three-three, he next cashed the ace of clubs. Then he led the deuce of diamonds, winning with the ace and dropping East's queen.

On the jack of clubs he discarded dummy's three of hearts. It would not have done East any good to ruff in as his trump was high. Dr. Katz next led a small trump and East's diamond won. If he returned a heart, declarer would ruff in dummy, but East saw that it was hopeless and laid down the ace of spades. And the doctor made his contract of five diamonds doubled.

THE LAST STRAW

By JIM GRIFFITH

Emily Post please note: "Soup should be slurped, not sipped," an authority says. After all, trying to be quiet with it makes the soup more trouble than it's worth.

Restaurant soup being as watery as it is, it's a cinch that no matter what precautions you take—you'll get more slurp than soup.

Eating soup is like eating celery. One gets more noise than nourishment. Perhaps that's the reason one often hears of an unimaginative night club operator complaining that a soup slurper, in top form, is capable of drowning out his orchestra.

But that's hardly right. Personally, I can make more music with a large spoon and a bowl of soup than I could make with a baton and the whole Philadelphia Symphony.

What do you say? Let's take the muffler of soup. One can't help but wonder why a lady who'll sit down on her horn in a traffic jam will go to all kinds of trouble to sneak her lips around a soup spoon.

WASTAGE

IN AN ARTICLE in the Journal of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, three scientists agree that nine billion gallons of potential fuel are annually wasted in the remnants of farm products.

Among the unused sources of synthetic fuel are corn-cobs, peanut shells, straw, stalks, and husks, and other left-overs.

Such fuel would be somewhat more expensive than coal and petroleum products, but far less costly, in the long run, than fooling along with John L. Lewis and his labor monopoly.—Detroit News.
