ANSWERS TO Modest Maidens QUESTIONS

By HASKINS. A reader can get the answer to any question of fact by writing The Long Beach Press-Telegram Information Bureau, 212 E. 7th St., R. 6, Washington 1, D. C. Please include three (3) cent. for return postage. Q. What were the first articles made of aluminum? H. C. P. A. A watch fob for the King of Siam and a set of knives, forks and spoons were, so far as is known, the first articles made of aluminum. The latter were introduced at a banquet in Paris during the reign of Napoleon III. They were made by an exclusive jeweler and cost nearly $100 apiece. Q. What country now leads the world in merchant ships? R. I. K. A. The United States leads in shipping, accounting for 32,890,745 tons or 36.1 per cent of the 83,513,772 tons of motor and steam vessels as of June, 1947. Great Britain and northern Ireland ranks second, with 21.4 per cent. Q. What is the largest building in South America? O. O. C. A. The new war ministry building in Buenos Aires, Argentina, claims to be the largest in South America. It was completed in 1947. Q. Why did Alexandre Dumas title his story "The Three Musketeers" when there are four heroes in the story? R. C. Q. A. It is true that there are four leading characters in the book. Three of the men are guardsmen, and the fourth is, to use the phrase of E. A. Baker, "our redoubtable and versatile Gascon comrade D'Artagnan." Musket was the weapon formerly used by infantry. Q. In what colors are neon signs produced? R. D. J. A. Electric advertising signs containing neon have a reddish orange glow. Colors other than orange are produced by other gases. In popular speech, however, the word neon is used to refer to all such colored signs. Q. What is the real purpose of a lightning rod? J. A. A lightning rod is a conducting path for the current of electricity. If the spark drops from a cloud overhead onto a house equipped with a lightning rod, the spark is more likely to hit the rod than the house, and will follow it harmlessly to the ground. Q. A lightning rod is a conducting path for the current of electricity. If the spark drops from a cloud overhead onto a house equipped with a lightning rod, the spark is more likely to hit the rod than the house, and will follow it harmlessly to the ground.

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc. A. ARE PERSONS WHO ARE SOMETIMES MORE CHEERFUL, MORE FORCEFUL, PERSONALITIES THAN THOSE ALWAYS SO? YES NO. B. IS IT BETTER FOR PEOPLE TO HAVE ONE GOAL IN LIFE OR SEVERAL? ONE SEVERAL. Answer to Question No. 1. Apparently yes. Psychologist Winifred B. Johnson had 30 sorority girls rate each other on "cheerfulness," "gaiety," "changeableness of mood," "high strung," "degree of likeableness," etc. Those rated as "least moody,"

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY. Several of the hands published in this column each month are sent to me by readers. I like to publish hands played in home groups and local bridge clubs if they are interesting and have some reader value. The fact that a player held 13 spades does not make a good story because there is so little possibility of holding such a hand. Today's hand came from Harry D. Whitney, an optometrist of Endicott, N. Y. The other three players were Robert Johnson, superintendent of the Ideal Hospital, Ward Allen of Allen's Funeral Home, and Jay Nagle, a superintendent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., all of Endicott. As Mr. Whitney did not tell me where the respective players sat, I do not know which one of them made the unusual bid of six no trump. While it is an unusual bid, even the expert will make some such bid occasionally with a hand like West held, feeling perhaps that this is the only way to get an unusual result. North's open lead of the deuce of hearts forced South's jack and declarer won with the ace. West realized that if the spade suit broke two-two, he could count 12 tricks. But if he played out the spade suit and it did not break, he would be in trouble. Deciding to make the opponents guess once more, he cashed the king of hearts, then led the heart ten. Believe it or not, North refused to win the ten with the queen. He too wanted to make declarer guess which suit to play. Now there was nothing for West to do but to cash the ace and king of spades. When the queen dropped, he cashed the jack of spades, led the five-spot over to dummy and discarded the ten of clubs on dummy's good spade, making seven-

SENATOR SOAPER SAYS:

It is a great mistake to think no one is interested in political platforms, appealing as they do to all lovers of stately prose and clean double entendre. We are behind as it is on the great tasks that confront us. Either our arms are growing longer or our natty raincoat not only repels water but shrinks from it. One of those haunting overheard snatches of conversation, in a local bar: "There are more Republicans than you think." In the south a 2-year-old is adjudged 98.4 per cent perfect, the 1.6 deductions being an attitude toward afternoon naps. To his astonishment, Uncle Sam learns from a magazine that "the Siamese love us." What a dilemma: Having to stand off twins—and in a leap year! This being inflation, the proposition of a new $3 bill should have gone farther and asked that anything smaller be declared counterfeit.

Answer to Question No. 2

Not quite but almost. First, take for granted the drivers in front, behind and going around you are either drunk, crazy or worried. Second, accept these established facts—(1) only about one driver in 1000 (this includes you) is adequately trained; (2) three cars out of four (with three chances to one in includes yours) have defective brakes; (3) when you are passing a car or one is passing you, there is only one-fifth of a second, on the average, between you and God. Answer to Question No. 3. One, plus a good side hobby. Numerous studies show many people fail because they have too many goals and abilities. They can do many things easily, they try one for a while, and get dissatisfied because it doesn't take all their abilities. They sometimes become neurotic from lack of ability to make a decision final. YOUR SUCCESS IN MARRIAGE TESTS Are you a good risk as a marriage partner?
