The old rule, "don't tell the wife a thing or two; tell her one and stick to it," might do for a foreign policy.

Before he can get his bearings, this year's college grad is snapped up and installed in a well-paying job, thus missing out on that dreamy interlude of six to eight years known as finding himself.

But is five months enough for the new, human Truman, mak-ing up his speeches as he goes along, to undo three years of ghost writing?

Fame is fleeting. In 14 years the Dionne quints have gained 610 pounds in weight, and we've forgotten which of the canned strained vegetables was responsible. (North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Answer to Question No. 1

Yes, according to Claudi De Lys in her amazingly informative book, "Treasury of American Superstitions." She says (abridged): "Every form of ghost and spirit materialization has been reproduced. Magicians can perform the same feats." Amateurs who wish to become mediums can buy apparatus by mail, including spirit trumpets, talking skulls, floating tables, ghosts, etc. Down with super-stitions!

Answer to Question No. 2

Yes. From the standpoint of eugenics it might enable educated people to have more babies. A Minneapolis company has started a four session course in baby sitting for girls. (It should include boys.) She inshould include boys.) She instructs the girls in holding, feeding, soothing, bathing, jouncing and diaper changing. (That's getting at the true basis of education.) May the idea spread to college summer sessions!

Answer to Question No. 3

Yes, apparently. Psychologist C. Seltzer compared the KFOX-News, Music. C. grades at the end of the freshman year of 1871 Harvard freshman—41 per cent from public schools, 42 per cent from private boarding schools, 17 per cent from private day schools. Standard tests revealed no essential differences in mental ability. Yet the public school world and the school world will be the school will be the school world will be the school will be the school will be the school world will be the school will be punils did considerably better the private da pupils. country other than the U.S. Participation is by invitation only and is limited to 36 players. Philip Steiner, of Cincinnati, Ohio, gave me today's hand at the recent midwest tournament in Cincinnati, and it brings out a fine point in defense. Phil loves to bid slams, but he thinks that the most difficult hands to that the most difficult hands to defend are part score contracts.
West held the opening lead with the diamond king and then shifted to the six of hearts. Declarer played low from dummy and East won with the king. East returned the ten of clubs and declarer's queen went to West's ace.

West led the jack of clubs,
South won with the king, cashed the ace and king of spades and led a small spade, throwing East in the lead. East then cashed his high club.

high club.

At this point it did not look as if any harm would be done by leading back either the fourth club or the jack of diamonds. But there is a theory followed by good card players, which is, kill re-entries.

If East leads either the fourth club or the jack of diamonds, de-clarer will trump it, and after leading another trump, will end up with a trump and the jack and seven of hearts in his own hand. In dummy he will have the ace and nine of hearts and queen of diamonds.

West will be down to the ace of diamonds and queen-ten of hearts, and he will have to make a discard on the last trump lead. If he discards the ace of dia-monds, declarer will throw dummy's nine of hearts and win the last two tricks with the queen of diamonds and ace of hearts. If West lets go the ten of hearts, declarer will discard the queen of diamonds from dummy and win the last two heart tricks.
