Answer to Question No. 1 No, not until she is about ready to graduate, according to a study by sociologist Willard Waller on "The Rating and Dat-ing Complex." Dr. Waller points out that "going steady" takes her out of the date market, and her out of the date market, and if the match breaks up she is stranded. He adds that every girl is "rated" at the boys' "bull ses-sion," and to be popular a col-lege girl needs "clothes, a smooth line, ability to dance well." These make her popular with her date. The competition is apparently as keen as in busi-ness. ness.
