Aged Cow, 28, Gives Birth to 26th Calf

RIPLEY, Me. —(U.P.)— A 26-year-old cow (equivalent to a human being 90 years old) has given birth to its 26th calf. The cow's owner, Mrs. Lila Vitam, thinks the animal is the oldest in Maine and possibly one of the oldest in the nation. Several weeks ago the cow was giving 10 quarts of milk a day. Mrs. Vitam said, and until about a year ago the aged bovine produced 18 quarts a day.

Officials at the Angell animal hospital in Boston say the average life of a cow is 15 years.

The corn crop was estimated at 3,328,862,000 bushels, and the spring and winter wheat crops combined were estimated at 1,241,451,000 bushels—second only to last year's record production.

Combined with the first big European crops since the war, the yield from America's lush farmlands will do much to ease the world shortage, experts said.

Shortage Near

Forecast in 1948

Many said the United States soon may face the problems of disposing of surplus wheat. They base their beliefs on the U.S. department of agriculture's estimates of the 1948 corn and tion's history.

the world shortage, experts said.

At home, the huge corn crop will mean more meat on America's dining tables next year, they hence cut the supply of meat. . A department of agriculture spokesman warned, however, that it would take several years of good crops to restore the Euro-pean food supply to normal.

Many nations are living on bare subsistence basis. the spokesman said, and must pile up reserves before distribution can begin on a normal basis. Europe also must use much of its grain to rebuild its live stock production, he said. Thus, he said, it is "highly unlikely" that an undue surplus will be piled up here for lack of foreign markets.

The expert acknowledged, however, that within another year market outlets might become a problem if importing countries continue to have good crops and try to become self sufficent. Chicago grain traders said that The department Friday forecast if the department of agriculture another bumper wheat crop and the biggest corn crop in the na-production, the nation will have a total grain crop of 1,044,000,000
