Q. How many , blocks marble were used to make the huge figure of Abraham Lincoln in the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D. C.? N. W.

A. The heroic 19-foot figure of incoln was made from 28 blocks of marble. The sections re joined so expertly that the figure appears to be made of one piece. It took stonecutters four years to finish the work.

Q. To what family of fishes does the shad belong? Ho large does it grow? S. C. D. does it grow? A. The shad is the largest American member of the herring family. Its usual length is 18 to 24 inches. Shad live in sea water but go up fresh water rivers to spawn.

Q. When the master clocks at the Naval Observatory are wrong how are they set to show correct time? V. M. G.

A. When these master clocks are once started they are never reset, for to do so would merely increase the error. The astronomers always know exactly how slow or fast these clocks are and make allowances for these errors in sending out th time

Q. Are cobra skins used commercially? T. S.

ATTE MENACE of Communism lies primarily in those areas of American life where the promise of demograpy received.

Q. Is melted seasoned cheese on toast Welsh "rarebit" or Welsh "rabbit?" S. O. A. The choice of words has caused a lively debate over many years. It seems, however, that "rabbit" is the older term, appearing in the English lan-guage as far back as 1725. The term is purely of slang origin and was probably the result of someone's sense of humor.

"You know darling something just occurred to me-I married that Mr. Jones last week!"

Let's Explore Your Mind

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

Answer to Question No. 1 Yes, in a statistical sense.

Fewest marriages end in vorce where the groom is 29 and the bride 24. This merely indicates such persons are likely to be emotional grown-ups. If both are under 20 they are ten times as likely to be divorced as if at the "ideal age." Grownupness is the main thing. Some persons at 18 are more grownup than others at 30 or 60.

Answer to Question No. 2 Yes, especially the one room country teachers. Her pupils are from 6 to 18—some bright, mostly average, some slow, and even 2 or 3 morons. She is also more under the eyes of the patrons. In short, the successful country teacher has to have the brains of a genius, the training of a super Ph. D. and the personality of an angel. For all that she is paid less than an unskilled cement mixer.

Answer to Question No. 3

That it causes the individual to identify his own, success and importance with the success and importance of some group or crowd or even some nation. As pointed out by Cal. U. psychologist E. C. Tolman, this is "group identification." People who feel unsuccessful as individuals gain a feeling of importance and success by identifying themselves with the success of the family, or school, or social class, or laboration and the success of the success of the family, or school, or social class, or laboration and the success of the bor union, or nation, or even their hemisphere!

ON BRIDGE By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY A PERSON laid up in a hospital appreciates flowers and books, but a columnist also appreciates material for his column. Just before I came out of Memorial Hospital in New York City recently, my former staff the American Contract of the American Contract Bridge League sent me six un-usual bridge hands, the first of which I am giving you today. It was contributed by Dan Ma-honey, an official scorer of the league, and a very good player.

Mahoney, a witty Irishman, said, "After getting into six no trump, I had to make it, because I was playing in a mixed pair event." Unfortunately for him, the opening lead of the jack of diamonds knocked out his apparent entry into dummy the question was, should he take the club finesse immediately?

We can see that if he did, it would not work. Mahoney, however, saw a simple safety play that would assure him of his contract. He led a spade from dummy, cashed the king and ace of spades, then led the six of hearts, putting on dummy's nine-spot.

East saw that if he took the jack of hearts, the ten would be an entry into dummy for Mahoney. If he refused the heart, declarer would discard his two losing clubs on the queen and jack of spades, and make seven-

HOPE REMAINS

THE LATEST figures show that the Treasury surplus at the end of this fiscal year on June 30 may be "only" 7½ billion dollars. Early this week the surplus reached eight billion, but the spending will be greater than the revenue in the next few days and hence the poor showing of just 7½ billions at the end of the month. But the Treasury shouldn't be discouraged. The 7½ billions is more than the entire government was costing just as the New Deal costing just as the New Deal was getting its first wind and nearly twice the cost 16 years ago. So the tax cut hasn't wrecked us and with good management there's still hope for the republic.—Kansas City Star.

A falling of the Cominform and Tito, if properly staged, can be as beautiful as the older Cafour-leaf clovers outside her back door. One trusts that opportunity was not knocking at ponc-Bugs Moran war over beer the front.

They'll never find Truman," predicted a jubilant Republican in the cigar store today. "Why, our boy will finish ahead of the motorcycle escort."

Nothing escapes the restless eye of the alert, imaginative correspondent who, seeing the elder statesman for the first time in four years, reports "Hoover seems older."

Vacation time brings new confusion to the endless war of the sexes, with the last child up in the morning wearing whatever dungarees are left.
