By Jay Alan MCKENNY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY America's Card Authority Written for NEA Service

OUR lesson hand today comes from Mrs. Sadie Machlin, who was formerly my financial secretary and is still associated with the American Contract Bridge League. She is the sister of the well-known national tournament director, A. M. Sobel.

Mrs. Machlin brings out a fine lesson in today's hand, not only in execution of an endplay, but discarding a loser at the same time, After winning the opening lead of the diamond jack in dummy with the queen, she saw that she had a loser in the four of clubs, and if the club finesse was wrong, that also would be a loser. Of course, if the diamonds broke three-three, that would take care of one of the losers. The first thing she did was to take three rounds of trumps. Be-fore cashing the two high dia-monds, however, she must strip her hand and dummy of hearts; so she cashed the ace and king of hearts and ruffed the nine-spot. When West dropped the queen, Mrs. Machlin was sure there were no more hearts in the West hand. Now she cashed the other two high diamonds, East showing out on the third round of diamonds. The six of diamonds was led from dummy, declarer discarding her four of clubs. She knew that West would not have a spade, a heart or a diamond to lead back. The only lead he could make was a club, right nto the ace-queen.

Although this is not a difficult hand to count down, too many beginners would make the mistake of gambling on the club finesse too call. finesse too early.
