When you talk about the 1948 edition of the Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey circus, you run short of adjectives—unless you dig into the advertisements and start on the press agents' superlatives.

Even they do no more than justice to the spectacular performance which "the greatest show on earth" presented here Tuesday.

The two huge Madison audiences—totalled more than 20,000 persons—loosed great waves of applause for many of the acts and, for the first time in my memory, applauded a circus "spec" or pageant. This was for "Twas the Night Before Christmas," in which toyland came to life under the big top with all the splendor of the most gorgeous of childhood's imaginings.

The huge tent was almost full for the afternoon performance, and the night show attracted so many that hundreds had to be seated on the ground in front of the grandstands rather than on the chairs or "blues."

Circus officials said that the night performance drew the biggest crowd, the show has had since it left Madison Square Garden. It was the first time this season that spectators were seated on the ground all around the hippodrome track.

Incidentally, one of the most attractive features of the show this year is the grandstand setup. There are really comfortable chairs, upholstered with a new plastic and mounted sturdily on sloping platforms.

This obviously expensive innovation was a reflection of the care with which the whole show was staged. Time was a factor; while the matinee made a late start because of tardy arrival of the last four trains, the night show went strictly on schedule.

Director Pat Valdo blew his whistle at 8:15 sharp, and the last act ended at precisely 10:30. Into those 2 hours and 15 minutes were packed every conceivable variety of circus entertainment, from clowns' buffoonery to equilibristic skill and aerial daring.

Costuming was truly brilliant, and each display followed a definite color scheme; lighting was almost perfect, and most of the equipment shone with fresh paint or the result of polishing.

Sprinkled throughout the program were new acts, two of which were the best of their kind that this generation of circus-goers has seen.

One was Urus, gravity-defying equilibrist who actually balanced himself, feet uppermost, on a glass ball—on his forehead. It's an incredible feat, but there it was. Almost as awesome was the climax of his act, in which he stood head down, with one hand on a cane which, in turn, rested on a glass globe—and then twirled

Glady's in "The Skin of Our Teeth" with Wisconsin Players. She played Katrin in the Green Bay Community theater's production of "I Remember Mama."

Jose Ferrer will be co-producer and director of "Gutterbucket," to be given on Broadway next season. He may appear in "The Silver Whistle," a Theater Guild play.

Rumor says that, after all, Paul Lukas may not be in "April Fool."

TOUR: "Finian's Rainbow" will take the road this fall, with Joe Yule, Nan Wynn, and others of the New York production in the cast. The musical comedy opened in New York on Jan. 10, 1947.

RADIO: Bob Hawk, now among the top 15 night network shows in the hooperatings, will take a two-week vacation starting Thursday. Col Stoopnagle will be at the mike for him.

Barbara Fuller, who plays Claudia in "One Man's Family," is doing the young widow "down the block" in the Bondie series. Lulu Belle and Scotty will guestar on "Grand Ole Opry" Aug. 7.

Walter Winchell will have a new sponsor beginning Jan. 2—a motor car maker.

H. V. Kaltenborn plans to broadcast from Berlin on Aug. 6.

Holdovers Win Applause
Two of last year's holdovers had the crowds breathless and, finally, applauding mightily. They were Rose Gould, who did daring things on a trapeze held by two unnamed men, and the Alzanos, who had added some new ideas to their high-wire act but who still climaxed it with Harold riding a bicycle across the strand while his wife and sister performed on two trapezes suspended from its axles.

Well, there were dozens of other things worth reporting. Lou Jacobs in his tiny car, the dancing elephants, the clowns' hilarious takeoff on Western movie stars, the trained jaguars, tigers, and polar bears; Natal, the man who climbs around like a monkey; the men who leap over elephants; the three flying-trapeze turns, and so ad infinitum.

What it added up to was a circus which still is undisputedly "the greatest show on earth."

THE STAGE: Francine Larscheid will join the Crater Players for "Noah," to be presented at Pleasure-Valley from July 29 to Aug. 8, inclusive. Miss Larscheid played Helena in "R.U.R." and BENEFIT: To help needy musicians in Europe, the Boston Symphony orchestra and Berkshire Music center will present a 4-hour benefit program Tuesday night, Aug. 3, at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. The artists will include the orchestra, under Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, and Cornelia Otis Skinner and Maurice Evans in Shakespearean excerpts.

Selznick Has Eye on Film of 'Big Top'

By EDITH GWYN
HOLLYWOOD—Cathy O'Donnell's tiff with Sam Goldwyn resulted in her departing that studio to free-lance—and also broke up the proposed "new romantic screen team" of O'Donnell and Farley Granger. But it certainly isn't slowing down her career any. Selznick and will debut for him in "The Greatest Show on Earth," which David will produce in technicolor—and featuring the entire resources of the Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey circus.

Walter Brennan will be the star of "The Green Promise," the close-to-the-soil epic which will be the first movie produced by Glen McCarthy, the Texas mint. Anne Baxter and John Hodiak are off to San Francisco for a fortnight holiday. Anne has just finished four pictures in a row.

Kippy Valez, beloved of the prodigiously generous Frank Palumbo of Philadelphia, has been very busy in pictures lately. And her latest break is one of the leads in "Mexican Hayride." Van Johnson was telling us that he and Evie were sitting in a beach restaurant the other night "minding their own business" when their friend, Producer Hal Wallis, passed by and mentioned he was showing his new one, "Sorry, Wrong Number," to some friends at his house. So the Johnsons gulped their dinner and rushed to join the group. Both said, "Glad I didn't have to go home alone after seeing it! It's got the scariest ending I've ever seen—a real chiller!"

I ask him for a job. This has been going on for 10 years."

Katie Hepburn is reading the script of "Strange Bedfellows," scheduled to be a Metro movie.

June Allyson is making some progress with her M.G.M. bosses in her pleading to be allowed to make just one little teeny-weensy outside picture with her spouse, Dick Powell. They'll no doubt get approval provided the script they plan together keeps her in one of those sweetness and a light characters.

Alan Ladd fans wouldn't recognize him around the sets for the final scenes of "The Great Gatsby." There was Alan, the former "gun toter," all done up in immaculate white tie and tails. There he was gabbing with Betty Field, Macdonald Carey and Barry Sullivan—and all of 'em so elegantly attired. Ladd was reminiscing about a day several years before his movie breaks, when he was just an electrician on the sets and an overhead light slipped, fell on his head and knocked him out.

Ex-Gov. Jim Davis of Louisiana wrote the song, "It'll Be a Month of Sundays," that Jo Stafford is introducing.
