8:18,

Betty Field, star of "Dream Girl"

and many other stage and screen successes, will star in Thornton Wilder's provocative Pulitzer Prize play, "The Skin of Our Teeth", which will open at the Westport Country Playhouse Monday night, for a week's engagement. Author Wilder has agreed to take over the role of "Mr. Antrobus" in his own play for the Westport engagement, which is happy news for county playgoers who still remember vividly his appearance as the "Narrator" in his play "Our Town" at the Country Playhouse during the sum-mer of 1946. John C. Wilson is staging "The Skin of Our Teeth", which marks his first appearance of the summer as director; and the setting and lighting are by Edward T. Cooper.

Featured in the large and brilliant supporting cast which will activate Mr. Wilder's dialogue and situations are Fania Marinoff (Mrs. Carl Van Vechten), Guy Spaull and Richard Hepburn brother of the film star Katherine Hepburn). Miss Field made her first appear ince at the Country Playhouse in the first feminine role of Lynn Riggs' "Green Grow the Lilacs' (from which "Oklahoma!" wa adapted by The Theater Guild). Since then she has been enormous ly successful on both stage and screen. Among her more notable films have been "Flesh and Fantasy", "The Great Moment", "Tomorrow the World", and "The Southerner", with Zachary Scott. Aside from "Dream Girl", recent stage appearances have been in "The Voice of the Turtle", "Two on an Island", "Flight to the West", "A New Life", and "The Primrose Path", among others. In private life Miss Fleid is the wife of the life Miss Field is the wife of the noted playwright, Elmer Rice, and makes her home in North Stamford. The role of "Sabina" in "The Skin of Our Teeth" gives Miss Field a wonderful opportunity for the display of her talent for high comedy; and with Mr. Wilder essaving one of the meaty roles in his own play, there is a distinct treat in store for playgoers at the West-port Country Playhouse next week.
