Seed Shady Lawns Now

From now to mid-September is the best time to seed shady lawns. Shady type grasses require several weeks to germinate and planted now the tender seedling will have ideal fall growing conditions. In late fall, after frost, the grass will thrive without competition of the shade and weeds. The following spring provides several weeks of good growing weather for it to become established ahead of the competition of the trees and drought.

Fall is also an ideal time to reseed all types of lawns. Apply seed, on new lawns, at 1 lb. to 250 square feet, and for reseeding, 1 lb. to 500 square feet. The ground must be kept moderately moist after sowing. Our Naturian Irrigators are ideal for this.
