Answer to Question No. 1 No. He doesn't know what real love means. As Rabbi J. L. Liebman says in his wonderful book, "Peace of Mind" (para-phrased), "Don Juan-the great lover-was at heart a man who never gave or received love. His countiess conquests were an attempt to discuss from him. countiess conquests were an attempt to disguise from him-self that he could not love or even believe he could be loved. His life was a search for out-going love, and also a flight from the knowledge he didn't believe such love existed." Answer to Question No. 2 Yes. You and I would could the Answer to Question No. 2 Yes. You and I would call it a rut. Psychologist Alfred Adler called it a "style of life." We all get into ruts and make little effort to get out of them. Some get into a rut of anxielles and fears, or the rut of procrastina-tion, or living beyond their means, or being prejudiced against races and groups, or the rut of drink or neglecting their minds, etc., etc. One psychologist estimated people spend only 2 per cent of their money improv-ing their style of life. ing their siyle of life.
