Q. During World War II. Prima Minister Winston Churchill received a message from President Franklin D. Rooseveltin which a passage from Longfellow's poem "The Building of the Ship" was quoted. Can you give the circumstances? Y. J.

A. In a world broadcast on Feb. 9, 1941, Winston Churchill referred to a letter sent to him by President Roosevelt and delivered by Wendell Wilikie, which contained the famous words of Longfellow's poem "The Building of the Ship." The lines quoted are as follows: Thou, too, sail on, O Ship of State! Sail on, O Union, strong and great! Humanity with all its fears, With all the hopes of future years. Is hanging breath-less on thy fate!"

Q. What was the Volstead

A. The 18th Amendment needed a law to enforce it, and the National Prohibition Act, introduced by Andrew J. Volstead of Minnesota, was passed through Congress in October, 1919. It was vetoed by President Wilson on Oct. 27, repassed by the House the same day and by the Senate the following day. It con-strued intoxicating liquor as that containing as much as onethat containing as much as one-half of one per cent of alcohol-by volume. It fixed penalties for liquor sales, provided for in-junctions against and the pad-locking of hotels, restaurants, etc., found to be selling liquor, contained a search and seizure clause, and oddly enough, continued the taxation of a product which had been outlawed.

Q. Please explain the rate of exchange of old money for new in the western zones of Germany. H. H. C. A. Each person in the west-ern sectors has been allowed to exchange 60 old marks for 60 of the new Deutsche marks. Half of the rest of his money can be exchanged at the rate of 10 old marks for one new one. The other half of his holdings are blocked pending special action.

The new money was introduced by the American, British and French authorities on June 20. to replace the old and badly inflated money and reduce the currency in circulation.

column I had written on the Vienna Coup. He wrote that he thought this hand was a tough one because of the choices it offered, either of two finesses or a squeeze with a Vienna Coup.

Mr. Johnston commented that the bidding had a wild west tinge, and we must agree that it did. The opening lead of the king of spades knocked out dummy's ace. The king of hearts was led, East. The king of heatts was led, East won and led back the ten of spaces. Had he led a dismond at spaces. Had he led a diamond at this stage. Mr. Johnston said his hair would have turned white, wondering what to do.

He trumped the ten of spaces, picked up the lest heart, and then asked. "What would you do now?"

After all, a finesse needs only one After all, a linesse needs only one card to be right, while a squeeze needs at least two." At this point also he made an uncomplimentary remark about East's double and

When the squeeze hit at trick

11. Mr. Johnston had a heart, the ten of diamonds and the small club. East had the jack of spades and two clubs: dummy had the nine of spades with the king-jack of clubs. West unfortunately was stuck with the king of diamonds and queen-ten of clubs.

When North led the last heart,

East kept the high spade, so dummy dropped the time. Now Mr. Joinston said. "West, the innocent bystander, writhed, thought, counted and squirmed, finally tossing a club, so dummy's clubs brought home the tax free colored margarine,"
