Patient With

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WHEN the doctor makes a diagpatient's blood is below par in two ways. Not only is the number of red cells cut down, but the effi-ciency of those which remain is impaired because of a lessening of their hemoglobin content, Hemoglobin is the substance which gives the red cells both their bright color and their power to carry oxygen.

Accident Or Operation

There are many causes of anemia, but among the most usual are injury to body tissues as a re-ault of accident or operation and prolonged infection. It has been suggested that the anemia in these cases depends on failure of the ody to form hemoglobin as a result of a disturbance in the way the body uses proteins. Destruction of red cells and fallure of the blood-forming organs to produce cells, both of which play such an im-portant role in the production of other kinds of anemia, are not fac-supplying ample amounts of proteln in the diet and by means of injections of whole blood into a vein. Thus, the person who is

Fix It Yourself

(The Handy Man) By HUBBARD COBB

Heat is rather cussed stuff. It finds out where you would like it to go and then moves in exactly the In summer it comes into the house and in winter it goes out. This attitude on the part of heat has done wonders for people who make insulation.

Heat has several ways of getting around. One is to hitch a ride on moving air. This loss can be considerably reduced by filling the space between walls and ceilings with insulation. This insulation can be made out of animal fibers, vegetable fibers or miners. The idea is that the insulation is filled with hundreds of tiny dead air pockets. As the air in these pockets isn't moving, the heat has considerable trouble getting through.

Another way that heat often travela is by radiation. This movement can be just about stopped through the use of metallic insulation. This is just a thin coat of shiny metal such as aluminum fastened to heavy paper. The heat rays strike this shiny surface and bounce back where they came from. One great advantage this type of insulation has over others is that it forms a vapor barrier and, of course, is not damaged by moieture.

The perfect insulation appears to combination of these two types: one to prevent loss of heat metallic insulation to stop radia-

WALTON, a college-grade Accounting course of nation-wide reputation, has been endorsed by leading accountants, educators, and business executives as authoritative and the leader in its field for more than a quarter of a century. In addition to being used by hundreds of colleges and business schools throughout the country, Walton has the distinction of producing more Certified Public Accountants than any other course of its kind. To date, five Butler graduates have their degrees.

INDIVIDUAL INSTRUCTION Except where class work is essential, the individual method is employed in teaching Walton Accountancy as well as in all other courses. This procedure perputs pupils to advance just as rapidly as they can master the work at hand, and also avoids any disadvantage due to occasional ab-

APPROVED Not only has the Butler School been accredited by the State Board of Education for the training of veterans (P. L. 346 and P. L. 16), but it has enjoyed the approval of hundreds of employers in this area who, year after year, seek the services of its graduates.

SECRETARIAL TRAINING

The Executive Secretaria Course adequately prepares candidates for the better opportunities in business offices. Other intensive courses invlude the Medical Secretarial, Legal Secretarial, Stenographic, Modern Bookkeeping, Office Machines (Comptometry, Dictaphone, Mineograph, Typewriting), Secretarial Finishing, Stenugraphic Finishing, Clerical and Refreshe ENROLL NOW! Prospects who have not already made arrangements to enter may do so any school day, or any Morday or Wednesday evening. Dial 3-3601, write, or call at the school office for details. Ask for our complete school Bulletin.
