Psychological test section with questions like 'HOW LONG DOES IT TAKE TO LEARN ENGLISH GRAMMAR PERFECTLY?' and 'DO SISTERS LOVE AND UNDERSTAND EACH OTHER BETTER THAN BROTHERS?' with 'YES' and 'NO' options.

Answer to Question No. 1 Apparently yes. Psychologist Chaplin used a scale for rating the degree of affection and intimacy of sisters for each other, and brothers for each other, at the University of Minnesota. He found sisters were much closer to each other and exchanged intimate confidences with each other, much more than brothers. Of course, there are exceptions, but this is probably true of brothers and sisters in general.

I WAS playing bridge recently with the well-known Irish-Scottish actress, Ethel Levey, whom many will remember as Mrs. George M. Cohan. On January 1, 1949, she will have been on the stage for 50 years. Some of my readers may recall when she sang "Johnny Jones" and "George Washington Jr." with Cohan. Before we started to play bridge, she sang a song that was introduced in one of her shows in 1905. It's a Grand Old Flag. In commenting on it, she said, "West looked like a fellow who had a good hand. He had inquired who was the dealer, so I thought he probably had a lot of spades, and I wanted to shut him out right away." Her four-club bid did just that. North of course was justified in taking the contract to five. Many players probably would have won the opening lead of the king of spades with dummy's ace, but not Ethel. She knew it was going to be next
