he gave up that line of play. The ace of clubs was cashed and the club queen led, Miller discarding the seven of spades from his own hand. West won the trick with the king and led back the deuce of hearts. Miller won this with the king and ked another heart to dummy's ace, which established West's queen. Now Miller led the jack of clubs and discarded the nine of spades, then kept on leading clubs until West trumped. All he lost was the king of clubs, ace of dia-monds and queen of hearts.

tankerous, and the public there-fore more readily accepts the wife's story of his misdoings, than his story about her bad temperament, or even unfaithful-ness. I don't quite know. As a newspaper man listening to trials, it always seemed to me the husband had to build up a lot of evidence to prove his story about his wife. But the wife's accusations seem to be ac-cepted at their face value. temperament, or even unfaithful-
