MCKENNY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY. At the national tournament in Chicago various players gave me unusual hands that had come up in their local duplicate games. Arthur C. Grau of Racine, Wis., president of the Wisconsin-Upper Michigan Bridge Association, gave me today's hand.

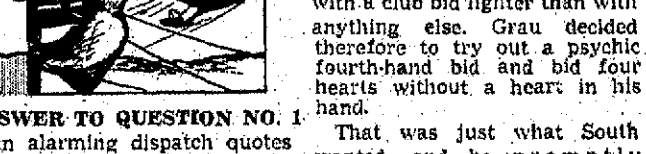

It is quite unusual to find a hand in which there was a fourth-hand psychic bid, but you have to know the sequence of events at the table to understand the situation. South packed up his hand and went into a long study, then, realizing that he had hesitated, he looked down at the duplicate board and said, "Whose deal is it? Oh, pardon me, I pass."

When West passed and North bid one club, Grau (East) knew

"You see, Johnny told me to go jump in the lake!"

ANSWER TO QUESTION NO. 1. An alarming dispatch quotes Dr. Charles S. Ormond as saying: "The traditional beauty of women's legs will soon be but a pleasant memory, unless teenagers adopt slightly higher heels. Flat heels thicken the ankle and harden the calf, so our rising generation of women will have legs almost as unattractive as men's."

ANSWER TO QUESTION NO. 2. Put a competent psychiatrist or psychological counselor in every school. Psychologists Stromswold and Wenn show the greatest loss in our educational system as the "under-achievers"—the unhappy, maladjusted, etc. For a few cents per pupil per year competent student counselors would add millions to our national wealth—and billions in the happiness of our young people.

ANSWER TO QUESTION NO. 3. No, according to Cornell U. ornithologists R. Griffin and R. Hock. They took gannets—a large white sea bird far inland and turned them loose. All but the ones who found their way back to the sea apparently did so as humans do—by exploration. Experiments indicate carrier pigeons are guided by their relationship to the magnetic pole. If thrown off of this they seem lost.
