YES D NOD Answer to Question No. 1.

Yes, by following the natural rules of sleep. Real insomnia is rare. Dr. J. B. Rice advises that you first relax your muscles, there are 800 of them. Each one not relaxed sends your waking messages to your brain. If your room isn't perfectly dark wear a little cloth over your eyes with strings behind your cars. Don't sleep in a cold room. It should be medium. Even the cold air on your face and hands sends waking messages to your brain. If your room causes you to use too heavy covering. Our booklet "How to Relax" will show you how to sleep and wake up with a sunny disposition. (Sent at cost, 15 cents include a self-addressed, stamped envelope.)
