doubt as to the outcome. The cure for the long and fatiguing campaigns, I was told, could be very simple—have the conventions later, in the early fall instead of in the summer. This has been discussed for years by politicians, but nothing has ever been done about it. The mere mention of conven-tions made everyone I cures.

tions made everyone I ques-tioned sit up and take notice. Most said that the conventions must be overhauled, modernized and streamlined. These reforms, they said, must come before 1952, as the large television audience in the east was dis-mayed to see last summer's convention delegates in action. Next people were asked how they liked the oratory. Nearly all said they are thoroughly tired of the type of oratory which predicts that the country will be a combination of heaven plus utopia with free baseball tickets if the speaker gets in and that chaos, catastrophe and higher dog taxes will result if the speaker's opponent is elected.

It was agreed that the most refreshing speaker in this cam-paign has been Gov. Warren, whose reasonable and temperate oratory has been received by the populace with appreciation. Next I asked: "Do you sit down and listen with an open mind, judiciously, to the radio speeches of the different candi-dates?" No one said that he did. Most people said they lis-ten to their favorite candidate, ten to their favorite candidate, but they have already made up their minds how they will vote. I learned that the public is deeply concerned about the elec-toral college.
