Hollywood

By Edith Gwynn

A. C. Lyles, the publicity man recently shed by Martha Vickers, and Vera Ellen, the dancing starlet, are "tea for two."

Angela Lansbury (whose charms escape us) and Peter Shaw, have postponed their wedding date so many times—if you can believe their publicity elsewhere. What goes?

out a beeootiful white for that Technicolor picture!

Inside tip dept: Grapevine reports on "Take Me Out to the Ball Game," which co-stars Gene Kelly and Frank Sinatra, are very encouraging. But from what well known "unimpeachable sources" tell us, Metro will try sneaking "The Kissing Bandit" (which co-stars Sinatra and Kathryn Grayson) into theaters without much fanfare, because the studio really has nothing to fanfare about in this case. Never could understand what "giant brain" decided to team Frankie and Grayson anyway. They had a billion dollar (and natural) combine in Swoon-boy and Judy Garland, right under their noses for months—but never did anything about it. Too logical, and too simple, we imagine—judging from some of the over-expensive, over-produced, but under-entertaining epics that have emerged from that lot.
