A group of Madison artists, anonymous for now, is considering plan to rent their paintings to Madison residents for hanging in homes. So far the idea is rather nebulous, but to this department it appears to have considerable merit and great possibility of success. 11:35

These painters would like to see a wider distribution of their work and a greater use of original pictures in homes. Income from rentals is a minor point, at the moment. They would like to set up a central distributing point to which men and women could go to choose the pictures they'd like to borrow and to which they could return the paintings.

purchases of pictures suitable for their homes.

At the Orpheum

FEATURE: Words and Music.

TYPE: Musical.

CAST: Mickey Rooney, Tom Drake, Perry Como, Janet Leigh, Betty Garrett, and Ann Sothern with Gene Kelly, Judy Garland, June Allyson, Lena Horne, Cyd Charisse, Mel Torme, and Vera-Eilen.

BRUBBING IT IN

SEATTLE —(U.P.)— Police are looking for a man who bought a check protector from a local firm and paid for the machine with a with a with a came back "no account."

POLES LEARN RUSSIAN

REVIEWER Jean Behling. Hart falls in love with songstress Peggy (Garrett), who spurns him. Hart frequently disappears to visit "places," and after Rodgers falls in love with Dorothy (Leigh), Hart begins to feel more and more that as a person hair "a floor". Hart begins to feel more and more that as a person, he is "a flop."

HIGH POINTS: The topflight acting of Mickey Rooney... the quiet background work of Tom Drake... Lena Horne singing a different sort of song, "The Lady Is a Tramp"... Gene Kelly's big dance scene... June Allyson singing "Thou Swell"... words and music.
