Q. What university has the largest number of students? S. O. M.

A. At the end of 1948 the University of California had the greatest full-time attendance—43.418. 43,418. New York University had the largest full-time and part-time total attendance—47,647.

Q. In what Presidential campaign did the popular saying, "Another county heard from" originate? R. Y.

A. The saying goes back to the election of 1876, when Tilden and Hayes were running neck and neck and the results of the election were in great doubt. A recount of the ballots was ordered, and as the talles came in slowly the saying "Another county heard from" was the popular comment.

Q. How far down into the ocean do whales go? V. R. Y. A. It was long suspected that whales could dive to great depths in the ocean. This was proved to be true when in 1932 a sperm whale became entangled with a submarine cable, 3200 feet below the surface. When the broken cable was hauled to the surface the whale was still caught in it. Some authorities believe that whales can go to even greater depths.

Q. Is Damascus the oldest existing city in the world? O. M. G.
A. Damascus has the general reputation of being the world's oldest city in continuous existence. None has been found to be older. Mentioned in the Book of Genesis, Darnascus was al-ready a town in the days of Abraham, probably 2000 years or more B. C.

Q. Where was the entrance to Hell supposed to be according to ancient belief? A. M. A. A. The ancients believed that the entrance to the infernal regions was Avernus, a volcanic crater lake near Naples, Italy. "Why does man never stop insisting he is superior to all living things, including woman?" she asks. "Because he knows it is not true and hopes by much repetition to make it so, and it is his inferiority complex that needs bolstering.

"Almost never do you hear a woman say women are superior to men. Is that because women admit that men are superior? No, indeed! For women actually believe they are superior.

"But they realize that to rob men of their illusion would leave men feeling weak and in-ferior. Therefore, women hide their alert minds, mask their strength. Instead, they hold up patterns of courage, honesty and endurance to man to keep him happy, and thus make him stronger, braver and more honest than he actually is.'

The Seattle lady also says it is high time men cease this "war of nerves" against their superiors—women. Then, she says, they'll live longer.
"If men would stop using up

Answer to Question No. 1

Yes. The National Conference on Family Life reports that half of the men who marry the first time do so before 25 and half of the women before 22. The average mother has her first baby within one year, her second (if she has one) two years later, her third two years after the second. She is then 27. Her second. She is then 27. Her children marry and leave home when she is 45 to 50. Both parents can expect to live at least 11 years longer. If the husband dies then, the wife can expect to live 13 years additional as a widow to age 74. Very interesting.
