VISITORS: The roster of names-in-the-theater coming to the Wisconsin Union theater for the premiere of the Alfred Lunt-Lynn Fontanne show next week reads like a page out of "Variety." Playwright S. N. Behrman, who adapted the French comedy-drama to the American stage, is coming with the company and plans to stay for several days while the show is produced in the campus playhouse.

Sheldon Chaney, who designed settings and costumes for the show, will come out from New York especially for the opening, as will John C. Wilson, who is producing the show in association with the Theater Guild.
