A. An American Flag to drape the casket is supplied by the government in the death of certain peacetime veterans. The veteran must have been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable after serving a full enlistment, or for disability in line of duty. The Flag is issued upon application by Veterans Administration field offices, first, second and third class post offices, and fourth class post offices located in county setts.

in San Francisco? T. R. M.

A. The telephone service began with a public telephone in the office of the Chinese newspaper Mun Kee in the early 1830s. In 1884 a small switchboard, was installed in another location, and this is the only Chinese telephone office outside China. The Chinese telephone directory, in which the listings were drawn with ink and brush, has been discontinued.

A week after the curse was invoked, the plantation owner began to be troubled by violent stomach disorders and, realizing what had happened, realizing what had happened, retaliated with a "kahunia" of his own against the overseer. What the natives call "double kahuna" was now at work, and three months later both Hawaiians were dead.

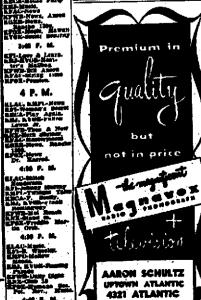

Well to the people who lived at the foot of the volcano where Bill had been raised, it was the ancient magic working again, but the young scoffer had a civilized and logical explanation for it.

THE PEOPLE do not honestly believe that we can go along forever on the something for-nothing plan.

House Bepublican Leader Jo-seph W. Martin Jr.

Paaiki, bribed by an extra large tip, walked half a dozen tourists into a temple where "haoles." or white men, were not yelcome. As they entered, a ritual was in progress and one of the tourists flicked the ashes of a cigaret into a sacred urn. The priest, horrified at this biashemy pronounced a curse on the avaricious guide and predicted that within seven days of the profanement he would meet with violent death.

The terrified guide returned to his hut and stayed there and, as the end of the seventh day approached, his friends began to wonder if he might not beat the curse.

But a few minutes before sundown, Paailki's neighbors saw a puff of smoke from the thatched roof and, by the time they got to his hut, the guide had been burned to death.

Well, Bill had an explanation for that one, too. As he saw it, Paailki, crazed with fear and afraid of being taken unwares, had been unable to sleep the night before. To keep awake during the last day of the curse, he had chain-smoked, but finally, cigarette in mouth, he had dozed off, Grass huts being what they are, the rest was simple.

well, but do not streamline their movements and save steps, entergy and time. As related in "This Week," Navy Commander W. J. Lederer did the housework while his wife was ill and installed Navy methods. He found neighbor women spent six hours aday at cooking and housework. He reduced it to 3% hours, kept house, cooked, cared for the children. His wife got the idea and reduced it to three hours—a reduction from 42 to 21 hours per week. Most wives are not overworked—they work too much doing the job.

what they are, the rest was simple. The elders of Bill's village, frightened by these heresies in their midst, sent a committee to reason with him. But the iconoclast stood his ground and the next day, to prove his point, waited into the temple and spat at the foot of the God of the Mountain. The enraged priest pronounced a malediction on Bill and prophesied that exactly one week hence death would rain down on him from the sides. one week hence death would rain down on him from the skies.

The young man smiled at this allusion to a volcanic eruption—

But a haif hour later he was dead.

The young man smiled at this altusion to a volcanic eruption—he had lived in the shadow of the volcano alt his life and, as recently as three days before, thad climbed down into the dead crater to examine it.

Nevertheless, the eve of the seventh day he had trouble falling asleep, and shortly before sump thought he heard a far-off rumbling in the air. He dressed quickly and went outside, and the sun hitting the top of the volcano seemed to edge it with lire.

"Might as well play it safe," he told himself, lumped into his jalopy and drove along the coast road to the east. By the time he reached the bay, both the volcano and his fears were miles to the west and he felt ashamed of having run away.

Yes. Sociologist C. E. Klapp says even Hitler is on his way to become a popular idol because only world-wide armies out out of the his historic stature. And so with Huey Long. Jack Dempsey was unpopular for a time, after defeating the French war hero. Carpentier. He regained popularity, though defeated by Tunney, by the claim of an unfair slow count when Tunney was down. Dr. Klapp thinks this did much to dim Tunney's glory, even if untrue. How heroes are made is a strange, psychological proposition.
