). What is the basic principle the snorkel, the device that now used on submarines?

T. C.

A. The principle of the snorkel is essentially the intake of fresh air through a quick-closing valve and the expulsion of the stais air through an exhaust head. The snorkel, which is a Dutch-German development, is simply a means of providing air to a submarine cruising at periscope depth. The intake tube furnishes air to the Diesel engines which otherwise could be used only for surface cruising. The exhaust tube carries off the exhaust gases from the Diesels.

Q. What is the origin of the ame "contrabase"? G. M. Y. what is the origin of the name "contrabass"? G. M. Y. A. This musical instrument, also known as double-bess or bass viol, was used to supplement the bass in the early church organs and hence was given the name "contrabass."

Q. Is the weeping willow native to the United States?
L. A.W.

A. The weeping willow was brought to this country from England. A. Hyart Verrill says that the tree owes its existence there to a fragment of a basket, used as a container for the used as a container for figs.

NEW YORK. (4) The poor man's philosopher asks: Is manking getting more cruel?
This is a question in many minds today. And many have decided in their own hearts that the answer is: "Yes."

Such a conclusion is bad, in-deed, for the world. For if a majority of people really be-lieved mankind were getting more cruei, then mankind would soon actually be more cruel. For what men believe they are, they tend in time to become.

Then there was the singer on the "Stop the Music" show, who was shopping at the sheet-music counter: "You know—the one that goes 'la da de da da.'"

Answer to Question No. 2
Ordinarily not. However, I interviewed Charile McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd on the air. Mortimer told me he had two personalities and thought I wouldn't care to know either one! Some psychiatrists, notably the late Morton Prince think some persons have a "split personality." They seem to be totally different persons at different times. The proof, however, that you are a normal mature individual is that you have one consistent unified personality. Our booklet, "How "Soviets soon to make movies that smeil"—item. Answer to Question No. 1
Yes, if they had enough common-sense and self-control to be guided by what they found out. Over 500 couples took the Burgess and Cottrell Marital Happiness Test. They answered questions about parents, family life, getting along with brothers and sisters, school teachers, relatives, etc. Their answers showed if they had taken this test at the marriage altar (or before) it would have shown whether they would be in the happiest or unhappiest quarter of married couples in general, with only two misses in a hundred. Ask for Married Happiness Prediction Test. Sent at cost, 15c, plus self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Answer to Question No. 2 Answer is Question No. 3
Yes, because life is in many ways less secure. Our fore-fathers fought nature, wild anitathers fought nature, wild animals and wilder Indians. But they knew pretty well what their hazards were. Youth today faces an even more tunchartered wilderness. Economic and social conditions may change over night. A new machine may throw out your job or profession. However, we know more than ever about the laws of courage, which you will always need for changes: and emergencies. Dale Carnegie says our booklet.
