They all have the jitters—emotional as well as political and financial jitters.

Every person and every group wants to feel safe from life's multiple disasters. It is as true of a railroad porter in Omaha as it is of a Wall Street broker or that man in the Kremiin.

The broker looks under his bed to see if a Communist is lurking there. Joe Stalin looks to see if a capitalist spy is hid.

Security isn't a goal of just the classes or the masses. It is the goal of all. The search for security is mankind's oldest quest, his eldest dream. He has sought it since he was exiled from the Garden of Eden.

But security is an odd thing. The faster you chase it the faster it flies from you. The more you want to be secure, the more insecure you feel. For security to the average man means keeping what he has—or getting what he has—or getting what he has—it. He wants to make himself a changeless island in a world of change. And that is rather hard to do on a that is rather hard to do on a globe where men are born, grow old and die.
