

"Incidentally, how WAS Peter robbed to pay Paul?"

Sen. Soaper Says: POOR PA

By H. V. WADE

AFTER 11 YEARS of quiz programs, we think we know the answers to about every thing, including "who pays for this?"

A big disappointment—the Cleveland Indians—to the early season form picker who depended on Boudreau, Feller, Bearden and momentum.

Nothing as yet from those scientists rumored at work in the labs on a new sound that travels faster than airplanes.

Of the many measures urged by our Harry, only one has so far been passed—and that hardly the type that a jubilant executive signs with seven pens.

150-pounder Set Record for Catfish

By HASKIN

A reader can get the answer to any question of fact by writing the Long Island Press-Telegram, 100 Nassau St., N. Y., Washington 2, D. C. Please enclose three (3) cents for return postage.

Q. WHAT WAS the weight of the largest catfish ever caught? R. S.

A. The world's record catfish caught and reported was a specimen of the Great Lakes cat, Ameiurus locustris, weighing 150 pounds and measuring 5 feet in length. It was caught at St. Louis, Mo., about 1878 and is reproduced in the National Museum in Washington, D. C.

Q. Please give some information about the oil bird. L. O. T.

A. This bird is found in north-eastern South America and lives in colonies in caves, sallying forth at night to seek its food of oily seeds. The young become extremely fat and are gathered by the Indians, who try out the grease found in their bodies and use it as a substitute for butter.

Q. What is the inscription on General Patton's grave? E. R. K.

A. The grave of General George S. Patton Jr. in Luxembourg is marked with a plain cross bearing his name, rank and serial number and the words "3rd Army." On the upper arm are four gold stars.

Q. Why are lunchrooms sometimes referred to as the "Hole-in-the-wall"? G. G.

A. Many taverns in England have had this name, the origin of which is undetermined. In "Notes and Queries" reference is made to William Kent's theory of its origin which was that the name was derived from the holes made in the walls of debtors' prisons through which inmates received gifts of food, drink or money. The presence of so many inns of this name near prisons or prison sites lends color to the theory.

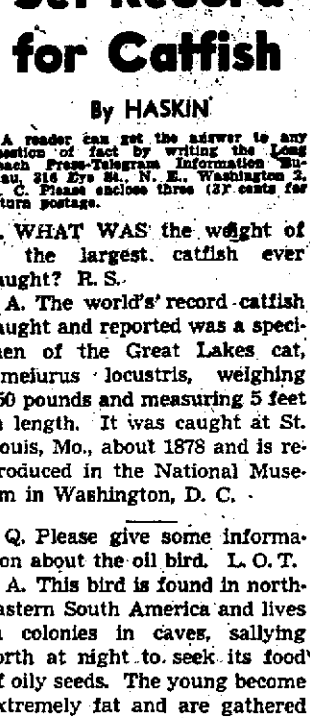

Ma is real good to children in the neighborhood. By being friendly an' feedin' them cake an' jam she finds out a lot about their parents.

Q. THUMBING through the menus, theater programs and bits of paper on which I made shorthand notes during my trip from Hither to Yon and back to Hither, I find that I've cooled off on a lot of notions which I thought column-worthy at the time I jotted them down. A few odds and ends, however, still seem to rate the light of day and the dark of printers' ink.

Show Business Abroad—Except for the shows in Paris, London and Tel Aviv, entertainment in far places is generally checkfull of noise and chockfull of talent. Foreign folk may not like my saying so, but I can run a two-inch ad in a New York paper and flush more theatrical know-how in the square

150-pounder Set Record for Catfish

By HASKIN

"He says he's under par, and he sure is, way under!"

SOME ODDS AND ENDS

Billy Rose Ends Series of Columns on Travels

By BILLY ROSE

THUMBING through the menus, theater programs and bits of paper on which I made shorthand notes during my trip from Hither to Yon and back to Hither, I find that I've cooled off on a lot of notions which I thought column-worthy at the time I jotted them down. A few odds and ends, however, still seem to rate the light of day and the dark of printers' ink.

Show Business Abroad—Except for the shows in Paris, London and Tel Aviv, entertainment in far places is generally checkfull of noise and chockfull of talent. Foreign folk may not like my saying so, but I can run a two-inch ad in a New York paper and flush more theatrical know-how in the square mile between 42nd St. and Columbus Circle than I saw in 35,000 miles of gaping and gandering.

The Global Clip—Mostly and in the main, the American gets a square shake for his dough when he sets out to take a peek at this whirling dervish of an eight-ball. The big exception is Venice, and I regret to report that this watered-down whatzis is run like a silly and sinister clip joint. It's understandable that people with hollow bellies should also have itchy palms but, in Venice, even in the first-rate restaurants and hotels, several thousand crooked lire are generally tacked onto your bill and, when you catch the Venetian at it, he merely shrugs it off with a, "Well, there's no harm in trying."

Despite the beauty of the town, Eleanor and I couldn't stomach the round-the-clock swindle and we checked out as fast as we could.

Oriental Dancing—For years I've heard balletomanes sound off about the magic and mystery of ceremonial dancing in the East. Well, after seeing quite a bit of it, my considered comment is, "magic and mystery, my Aunt Matilda!" I sat through performances in Japan, Siam, China and India, and I'll be darned if I saw anything in the fluttering of fans, agitating of eyebrows and snaking of fingers that the kids in my chorus line couldn't learn in two weeks.

Garry Davis—Is he a crackpot or one of few sane men in the world? Well, I was interested in answering this one for myself, seeing as how I've been playing small-stake poker with his pop—Meyer Davis, the orchestra leader—for years.

Garry, as you probably know, renounced his American citizenship last year to become a "world citizen" and work for peace, but what some of you may not know is that this red-headed stringbean of a kid has plenty of reason to be interested in peace—as an A. F. bomber, his plane was shot down on its eighth mission over Germany, and his brother, also a pilot, was killed at Salerno.

I located Garry in a four-buck-a-week shoebox in Montparnasse and, over a bowl of bouillabaisse, asked him what it was all about.

He told me—and I give it to you in his own words: "I believe that we've moved past the time when the A-bomb and the Red army can solve our problems. As I see it, the only solution is to set up a world authority and, once 'we, the people' in the west really get behind it, I have a feeling the little guy in

Modest Maidens

By Jay Alan

"He says he's under par, and he sure is, way under!"

SOME ODDS AND ENDS

Billy Rose Ends Series of Columns on Travels

By BILLY ROSE

THUMBING through the menus, theater programs and bits of paper on which I made shorthand notes during my trip from Hither to Yon and back to Hither, I find that I've cooled off on a lot of notions which I thought column-worthy at the time I jotted them down. A few odds and ends, however, still seem to rate the light of day and the dark of printers' ink.

Show Business Abroad—Except for the shows in Paris, London and Tel Aviv, entertainment in far places is generally checkfull of noise and chockfull of talent. Foreign folk may not like my saying so, but I can run a two-inch ad in a New York paper and flush more theatrical know-how in the square mile between 42nd St. and Columbus Circle than I saw in 35,000 miles of gaping and gandering.

The Global Clip—Mostly and in the main, the American gets a square shake for his dough when he sets out to take a peek at this whirling dervish of an eight-ball. The big exception is Venice, and I regret to report that this watered-down whatzis is run like a silly and sinister clip joint. It's understandable that people with hollow bellies should also have itchy palms but, in Venice, even in the first-rate restaurants and hotels, several thousand crooked lire are generally tacked onto your bill and, when you catch the Venetian at it, he merely shrugs it off with a, "Well, there's no harm in trying."

Despite the beauty of the town, Eleanor and I couldn't stomach the round-the-clock swindle and we checked out as fast as we could.

Oriental Dancing—For years I've heard balletomanes sound off about the magic and mystery of ceremonial dancing in the East. Well, after seeing quite a bit of it, my considered comment is, "magic and mystery, my Aunt Matilda!" I sat through performances in Japan, Siam, China and India, and I'll be darned if I saw anything in the fluttering of fans, agitating of eyebrows and snaking of fingers that the kids in my chorus line couldn't learn in two weeks.

Garry Davis—Is he a crackpot or one of few sane men in the world? Well, I was interested in answering this one for myself, seeing as how I've been playing small-stake poker with his pop—Meyer Davis, the orchestra leader—for years.

Garry, as you probably know, renounced his American citizenship last year to become a "world citizen" and work for peace, but what some of you may not know is that this red-headed stringbean of a kid has plenty of reason to be interested in peace—as an A. F. bomber, his plane was shot down on its eighth mission over Germany, and his brother, also a pilot, was killed at Salerno.

I located Garry in a four-buck-a-week shoebox in Montparnasse and, over a bowl of bouillabaisse, asked him what it was all about.

He told me—and I give it to you in his own words: "I believe that we've moved past the time when the A-bomb and the Red army can solve our problems. As I see it, the only solution is to set up a world authority and, once 'we, the people' in the west really get behind it, I have a feeling the little guy in

DUST IN ROAD

By Jay Alan

"Incidentally, how WAS Peter robbed to pay Paul?"

Sen. Soaper Says: POOR PA

By H. V. WADE

AFTER 11 YEARS of quiz programs, we think we know the answers to about every thing, including "who pays for this?"

A big disappointment—the Cleveland Indians—to the early season form picker who depended on Boudreau, Feller, Bearden and momentum.

Nothing as yet from those scientists rumored at work in the labs on a new sound that travels faster than airplanes.

Of the many measures urged by our Harry, only one has so far been passed—and that hardly the type that a jubilant executive signs with seven pens.

Q. THUMBING through the menus, theater programs and bits of paper on which I made shorthand notes during my trip from Hither to Yon and back to Hither, I find that I've cooled off on a lot of notions which I thought column-worthy at the time I jotted them down. A few odds and ends, however, still seem to rate the light of day and the dark of printers' ink.

Show Business Abroad—Except for the shows in Paris, London and Tel Aviv, entertainment in far places is generally checkfull of noise and chockfull of talent. Foreign folk may not like my saying so, but I can run a two-inch ad in a New York paper and flush more theatrical know-how in the square mile between 42nd St. and Columbus Circle than I saw in 35,000 miles of gaping and gandering.

The Global Clip—Mostly and in the main, the American gets a square shake for his dough when he sets out to take a peek at this whirling dervish of an eight-ball. The big exception is Venice, and I regret to report that this watered-down whatzis is run like a silly and sinister clip joint. It's understandable that people with hollow bellies should also have itchy palms but, in Venice, even in the first-rate restaurants and hotels, several thousand crooked lire are generally tacked onto your bill and, when you catch the Venetian at it, he merely shrugs it off with a, "Well, there's no harm in trying."

Despite the beauty of the town, Eleanor and I couldn't stomach the round-the-clock swindle and we checked out as fast as we could.

Oriental Dancing—For years I've heard balletomanes sound off about the magic and mystery of ceremonial dancing in the East. Well, after seeing quite a bit of it, my considered comment is, "magic and mystery, my Aunt Matilda!" I sat through performances in Japan, Siam, China and India, and I'll be darned if I saw anything in the fluttering of fans, agitating of eyebrows and snaking of fingers that the kids in my chorus line couldn't learn in two weeks.

Garry Davis—Is he a crackpot or one of few sane men in the world? Well, I was interested in answering this one for myself, seeing as how I've been playing small-stake poker with his pop—Meyer Davis, the orchestra leader—for years.

Garry, as you probably know, renounced his American citizenship last year to become a "world citizen" and work for peace, but what some of you may not know is that this red-headed stringbean of a kid has plenty of reason to be interested in peace—as an A. F. bomber, his plane was shot down on its eighth mission over Germany, and his brother, also a pilot, was killed at Salerno.

I located Garry in a four-buck-a-week shoebox in Montparnasse and, over a bowl of bouillabaisse, asked him what it was all about.

He told me—and I give it to you in his own words: "I believe that we've moved past the time when the A-bomb and the Red army can solve our problems. As I see it, the only solution is to set up a world authority and, once 'we, the people' in the west really get behind it, I have a feeling the little guy in

Let's Explore Your Mind

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

ly improbable. All your inborn hereditary traits are determined by tiny elements in the germ cell from which you were born, called "genes." (Jeans.) Half came from each parent. Ohio State Biologist L. K. Snyder calculates in Scientific Monthly there are at least 12,000 pairs of genes in each germ cell. Each child doubtless gets a different combination of these 12,000 pairs. This makes it possible for as many human beings to be born, differing in at least one trait as are represented by the figure I followed by 143 zeros—more people than ever lived. So it seems unlikely you will ever meet anyone precisely like yourself.

Answer to Question No. 1. No, in my view, although many eminent educators favor the enriched program, I think they should be nudged on into college and the college atmosphere by age 17, 16 and even 15. Psychologists find there is a big psychological urge from about 18 to 20, more important than the big change at puberty, when gifted youths should be well along in college. Anyhow, Psychologist S. L. Pressey has shown that youths who graduate from college at 19, 20 and 21 made more money, rise to office positions more often than youths of the same ability who graduate later.

Answer to Question No. 2. Yes, it is possible but infinite.

Answer to Question No. 3. Yes. Education should aim to equip each pupil for the years after school not only in personality but for a vocation. Yet, as psychologist Henry Link says, "Our schools are better equipped to give eight years of the wrong kind of education to pupils than eight hours of competent vocational guidance for later life work." Young people should get over the notion that they are "born" for some one vocation. Everyone can succeed at many of our 20,000 different vocations.

CONQUER YOUR FEARS New 28-page booklet prepared by Dr. David Mitchell, consulting psychologist shows you how to study and read your fears. Send 15c in coin and a stamped (no self-addressed return envelope) to: Dr. D. E. Wiggam, care of this newspaper. Just ask for "THE CONQUEST OF FEARS."

AUNT HET

I tried a servant once, but I couldn't stand it. I kept itchin' to do the work she neglected, but I was too stubborn to do the work she got paid for.

RADIO PROGRAMS — TODAY AND TOMORROW

Table listing radio stations: KLAC, KFI, KMPC, KECA, KHJ, KFWB, KNX, KFOX, KFAC, KGER with their respective frequencies.

The following programs are compiled from reports provided by the broadcasters. No responsibility assumed for last-minute changes which sometimes are made.

TONIGHT

5 P. M. KLAC-Fred Henry. KFI-Patricia Wirtz. KMPC-News. KECA-Tyler. KHJ-News. KFWB-News. KNX-News. KFOX-News. KFAC-News. KGER-News.

DIAL-LITES

8:00 KFI-Having seen the smash musical "South Pacific," "Archie" asks Bob Crosby to be his proxy and sing some of the hit tunes to his latest flame... who is so impressed that she washes Archie right out of her hair.

TELEVISION SCHEDULE

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 15. 7:15-Ed & Er. 7:30-Ten Report. 8:00-Baseball. 8:15-Baseball. 8:30-Baseball. 8:45-Baseball. 9:00-Baseball. 9:15-Baseball. 9:30-Baseball. 9:45-Baseball. 10:00-Baseball. 10:15-Baseball. 10:30-Baseball. 10:45-Baseball. 11:00-Baseball. 11:15-Baseball. 11:30-Baseball. 11:45-Baseball. 12:00-Baseball.

TONORROW

Thursday, June 16. 7 A.M. Dawn to 7 A.M. 7:15-Ed & Er. 7:30-Ten Report. 8:00-Baseball. 8:15-Baseball. 8:30-Baseball. 8:45-Baseball. 9:00-Baseball. 9:15-Baseball. 9:30-Baseball. 9:45-Baseball. 10:00-Baseball. 10:15-Baseball. 10:30-Baseball. 10:45-Baseball. 11:00-Baseball. 11:15-Baseball. 11:30-Baseball. 11:45-Baseball. 12:00-Baseball.

IF! IT'S MONEY YOU'RE AFTER see Mr. Drake FOR LOANS $25 TO $1000

PENSIONER'S EYE PLAN APPROVED ALL TYPES OF GLASSES FURNISHED AT BIG SAVINGS

WE KNOW YOU WON'T FORGET — BUT — REMEMBER To Give Him Something He Will Really Appreciate AND WE, TOO, WILL GIVE HIM A GIFT A FREE AIRFOAM OR PLASTIC PILLOW

SENSATIONAL VACATION SPECIAL SENSATION OFFER STARTS FRIDAY WATCH FOR IT

don't miss this! FABRIC FASHION SHOW thursday, June 16th 12:30 to 1:00 in our display windows and throughout the store.

THE END OF FIVE YEARS COMES BUT ONCE I had quite a time finding out what the proper thing to give on the fifth anniversary...

LONG BEACH YARDSTICK STORE 548 PINE, NEAR 6TH PHONE 7-3543