Q. IS THERE any special characteristic of persons who live long lives? G. C. K. A. Professor Raymond Pearl found emotional stability the predominant trait among more than 2000 nonagenarians and centenarians whom he studied. He said the fact that a vast majority of these extremely long-lived folks were of placid temperament and not given to worry, was a contributing cause.

A. Both male and female reindeer have horns. Those of the female are smaller, less sweeping and more simple.

Q. What does the expression "widow's weeds" mean? F. J. M.

"Widow's weeds" refers to the formal mourning attire worn by a woman who has lost her husband by death. In this sense "weed" comes from an Anglo-Saxon word meaning "garment." It was formerly the custom for widows to wear black clothing and a bonnet with a long black veil edged with crepe for a year or two, sometimes for life. Answer to Question No. 3 Yes. Of course most people commit suicide because they are in a state of desperation and can endure it no longer. But a lover who commits suicide often does it to punish the one who has jilted him (or her). He thinks how terrible the other will feel for hiving been the cause of such a tragedy. This give the lover contemplating suicide a feeling of power and import-ance—the most enjoyable feel-ing in human nature. Some persons commit suicide to re-lieve themselves of a feeling of guilt and to gain peace of
