FEELING HAPPY over one's good fortune as contrasted with the other fellow's expense burden is in order for the average California motorist. Enjoying a comparatively good highway system—with many improvements under way—and with lots of attractive places to go, the Californian pays a 4% cents a gallon gasoline tax.

In Louisiana, car owners pay 10% cents, including the 1% cents federal rate and a 9-cent state levy. The latter represents a current 2-cent increase. At this time of the year Californians often are described as a people on wheels when leisure hours permit. But it doubtless would be a different story here if Louisiana level gasoline and oil tax rates were imposed.— Sacramento Bee.

Today this chunky, red-faced Irishman probably knows as many people around town as middle-aged lady who lives in Jim Farley.
