

Let's Explore Your Mind

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. S.

Answer to Question No. 1

Yes. It made me miserable every time. Hollywood psychiatrist H. S. Sager, as reported by news writer Virginia McPherson, supports my sad experience. As reported Dr. Sager said, "being in love throws you into a mess of insecurities, doubts, distrusts and unhappiness." You don't know whether you're coming or going. It's an emotional spree—sort of a cross between heaven and hell. It's terrible, according to the learned doctor and me. But I wouldn't have missed it for the world. If you would, you're too darned normal. Real love is something else again.

Answer to Question No. 2

No. Psychologists Gaisell and Brown analyzed 185 reports where intelligence tests had been used to select employees and where their scores had been compared with later success on the job. The tests had proved of much value in predicting the success of clerical workers, of considerable success with supervisors, salesmen and skilled workers, perhaps of a little value with semi-skilled workers, but of no value in predicting success of sales clerks and unskilled workers. They strongly advised combining intelligence tests with many other tests, both in the interest of employer and employee.

Answer to Question No. 3 To be boss of yourself. The great preacher, Dwight Moody, said: "The hardest fellow I ever had to manage was Dwight Moody." If you talk loud, lose your temper, continually argue, fail to agree all you can before you disagree—(Lincoln's formula)—don't try to see the other fellow's viewpoint, don't admit when you are wrong, blame others for your mistakes, don't listen to the other fellow's story twice before counseling—you'll never make a good boss. These are only a few of the "rules and ropes" in our booklet, "Getting Along With People." Sent at cost, 15 cents in coin only, plus self-addressed, stamped envelope.

I CONTEND publicly for the first time that American business is conducting a cold war against the American people. —C. I. O. President Philip Murray, charging that business does not live up to its social responsibilities to workers and retired employees.

ONE OF the evil consequences of fear is that it may help to bring about the very thing we are afraid of. Fear of war, for example, has been one of the chief causes of war. —Dr. Harold W. Dobbs, president, Princeton University.

OUR GREAT productive power makes possible the biggest surpluses, the most colossal waste and the greatest economic crash the world has ever seen. —Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan.

NO ONE can doubt in these chaotic times that the destiny of all nations hangs in the balance in the current ideological struggle between Communist-thinking and democratic-thinking peoples of the world. —Attorney General Tom Clark.

Naming of Orchid Explained

By HASKIN

A reader can get the answer to any question asked by writing the Press-Telegram Information Bureau, 315 1/2 St. St., N. E., Washington 2, D. C. Enclose 10¢ for return postage.

Q. WHY IS A certain kind of orchid named Cattleya? F. A. S.

A. This genus of orchid is named for William Cattley, an English botanist and collector.

Q. What is there about the salt flats at Bonneville, Utah, that makes them especially suitable for automobile racing? U. N. G.

A. Climatic peculiarities make the Bonneville Salt Flats the safest place in the country to try speeds. Moisture drawn by the sun recedes at night, and conditions the surface, leaving it uniformly hard and smooth. Speed runs are made early in the morning. The salt has a cooling effect on tires and the surface is so hard that if a tire is thrown, the rim of the speeding car will not cut through.

Q. Were the miners entitled to unemployment compensation when they were out on the recent work holiday for memorial purposes? B. J.

A. The miners did not receive unemployment compensation for the recent "memorial" called by Mr. Lewis. Unemployment compensation is given only for involuntary unemployment.

Q. How many states prohibit hitchhiking? A. C. L.

A. The National Highway Users Conference, Inc., says that hitchhiking is prohibited by statute in the following states: Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Minnesota, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Utah, Virginia, Washington, Wisconsin, Wyoming, and in the District of Columbia. Local ordinances prohibit hitchhiking in Michigan. In Arizona, regulations prohibit the operators of carrier vehicles picking up hitchhikers. It is possible that the statutory prohibitions against passes and free transportation as provided in the various carrier acts may be construed to prohibit such transportation of unauthorized persons in trucks.

'NO GREATER LOVE...

Death Was Final Worthy Act of This Loyal Friend

By BILLY ROSE

IT WAS FAR and away the most impressive funeral in the history of Sequatchie County. The mortuary parlor was filled with people from as far south as Jasper and as far north as Pikeville, and next to the coffin was a wreath from the Governor himself. All of which was only fitting, seeing as how the dead man was former State Sen. Benjamin J. Purdy, affectionately known to the voters of Tennessee as "Good Old Ben."

The room went quiet as the Senator's widow, a good-looking woman in her thirties, took her seat in the front row, and the services started with a soprano singing "Lead, Kindly Light." When the song was finished, the undertaker made his way through the mourners and muffled the stand on which the coffin rested.

"Relatives and friends of the deceased," he said, "I regret to inform you that Congressman Biddle, who was to have delivered the eulogy, was not here with us on the way from Nashville, his car ran off the road and broke an axle. Perhaps one of Ben's old friends would like to say a few words on his behalf."

When no one came forward, the undertaker looked over the assemblage and tried again. "How about you, Al Sanders?" he said. "You've known the deceased all your life."

Sanders, a lanky man in a loose-fitting suit, came forward, looked down at the corpse for a moment and stepped on the platform. "All right," he said, "I'll give it a try. But it won't be easy, since there's little I can tell you about Ben Purdy and his achievements you don't already know."

"Ben and I grew up together and went to the same school. During the first war, we were in the same outfit in France and, when it was over, came home on the same train. But from them on, Ben started stepping a lot faster than I did."

"I opened a restaurant and most of the time was lucky if I had enough at the end of the month to pay my bread bill. But Ben, who always had a good head for figures, took the money his uncle left him and went into the mortgage business. "As you know, Ben made a fortune, but it never made any difference in our relations. Many's the time he said to me, 'If you ever need any help, call

"Furthermore it only cost $15—the other $65 I had put on next month's bill!"
