

"I wish they'd stop talking about a depression—we haven't got the inflation paid for yet!"

Sen. Soaper Says: POOR PA

By H. V. WADE THE NEW OLSEN and Johnson show is louder than the last, and any day now we can expect one of those hysterical rumors that Russian physicists have the secret.

Water is that nondescript gray stuff, specks of which appear dimly between the people in the Sunday-at-Coney-Island shot.

Off for a quick tour of the old world is our secretary of treasury, presumably briefed in 11 languages and many dialects to say "I'm sorry, boys. You catch me at a bad time."

King Heads Church of England

By HASKIN A reader can get the answer to any question of fact by writing "The Press-Telegram" for information Bureau, P. O. Box 10, N. E. Washington 2, D. C. Please enclose three (3) cents for return postage.

Q. WHAT IS THE RELIGION of the British royal family? L. J. T. A. The royal family belongs to the Church of England. The King of England by virtue of his office is head of the English Church throughout the world.

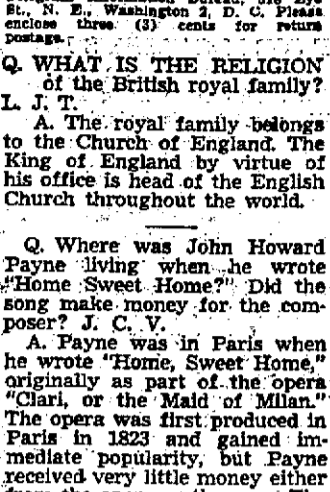

Q. Where was John Howard Payne living when he wrote "Home Sweet Home"? Did the song make money for the composer? J. C. V. A. Payne was in Paris when he wrote "Home Sweet Home," originally as part of the opera "Clari, or the Maid of Milan." The opera was first produced in Paris in 1823 and gained immediate popularity, but Payne received very little money either from the opera or the song. The original manuscript of the song is owned by the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y.

Q. What is the complete last stanza of Van Dyke's poem that includes the line "Love his fellowmen sincerely"? O. A. C. A. The line is quoted from a short poem by Henry Van Dyke called "Four Things." It consists of but one stanza: "Four things a man must learn to do if he would make his record true; To think without confusion clearly; To love his fellowmen sincerely; To act from honest motives purely; To trust in God and Heaven securely."

Q. When did marble table tops become popular? S. S. A. From Elizabethan England come records of marble stone table tops in 1538, although they were not until the early part of the 18th Century that marble appeared as an important furnishing feature in England. Its use in Italy most probably predates this. Marble-topped stands and tables were at the height of their popularity in the 1870's.

Modest Maidens

By Jay Alan

"I told him I'd be late but I'm always late, so I have to be later than I am when I'm on time!"

Jukebox Generation Likes Music From 'Golden Age'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) Sweet singers of the Golden Age of Song are enjoying a fresh wave of popularity in the jukebox generation.

"The favorites are Enrico Caruso, John McCormack and Alma Gluck," said Wally Butterworth, a radio disc jockey. "They rank in that order—just as they did in their own lifetimes."

Butterworth, 46, differs from the ordinary disc jockey in that he plays classical or semiclassical vocal records instead of the current groaners.

"Collecting old records is a tremendous hobby today," he said, "and some of them bring fabulous prices—up to $100 or more."

WHAT OTHERS ARE SAYING

THOSE WHO LEFT (the Atomic Energy Commission) because they had babies may be the result of incredible mismanagement, but not on the part of the commission.

Chairman David E. Lilienthal of the Atomic Energy Commission, testifying before the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee.

expected it would hold only a nostalgic appeal for oldtimers. "But I was amazed at the way younger people reacted," he said. "Many of them had never heard voices of that quality."

Butterworth later held a series of evening record concerts, and found 42 per cent of those who attended were under 30 years of age.

"Many were curious to hear more of the music their parents knew and loved," he said. Butterworth placed the Golden Age of Song between 1875 and 1921, the year Caruso died.

"Few people realize the singers of that time were every bit as popular as Bing Crosby is today," he said.

"Caruso made at least $3,500,000 from records alone, and in the year after his death his estate earned $600,000 in royalties. "More than 2,000,000 people bought John McCormack's recordings of 'I Hear You Calling Me,' made in 1912—and no one has ever sung it so well since, Alma Gluck's 1914 recordings of 'Carry Me Back to Old Virginia,' sold 1,500,000 copies at $1.50."

Today the top salary at the Metropolitan Opera is $750 a night, but Butterworth said Caruso was paid $2500 a performance from 1903 to 1920. On one concert tour he made $10,000 a night for 20 nights.

"It was a golden age in more ways than one," said Butterworth. "But they don't have voices like that any more. They don't. It's chiefly a matter of work. They've injected too many Hollywood features into the business. They want the sopranos streamlined."

"In the old days a singer would study for five to seven years before even daring to sing an opera in public. Now they study two years and figure they are ready for the Met."

Let's Explore Your Mind

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

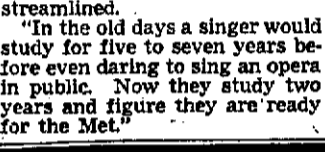

DO SOME PEOPLE TAKE PLEASURE IN FINDING FAULT WITH THEMSELVES? YES (DAD) NO (DAD) IS ANYBODY GOOD AND MORAL THROUGH AND THROUGH? YES (DAD) NO (DAD) DO MEN DEMAND A HIGHER STANDARD OF MORALS IN WOMEN THAN WOMEN DO IN MEN? YOUR OPINION.

Answer to Question No. 2

Yes. This is the chief indoor sport of many people and indicates they are headed toward becoming neurotics. They're really trying to find excuses for their own failures and deficiencies. They are constantly telling themselves they are not as good, beautiful, intelligent or well-dressed as John Jones or Emma Smith. In a sense this makes them unhappy. But they get a feeling of satisfaction by trying to achieve superiority and contentment through finding faults and failures in others.

Answer to Question No. 3 No. Probably no character except the SUPREME MASTER ever lived who did not have some flaws in his character. The average person has a lot of flaws—especially inconsistencies. Psychologists Hartshorne and May concluded by giving morality tests to over 10,000 school children, ages 3 to 14, that each person develops numerous "moralities" rather than "one morality." The most highly moral person may tell all sorts of social lies—that he has a headache, is leaving town or something to avoid seeing you. Most of us, of course, are far more inconsistent than that. Five minutes' intermission here to examine your inconsistencies.

AUNT HET

Watching Pa has taught me a sure way to diagnose asthmatics. They go to bed when they are well and stay up when they are sick.

RADIO PROGRAMS — TODAY AND TOMORROW

- KLAC 570, KFI 640, KPBC 710, KECA 790, KHJ 930, KFWB 980, KNX 1070, KFOX 1280, KFAC 1330, KGER 1390

Table of radio programs for today and tomorrow, listing stations and program titles.

Advertisement for Bendix Economat Automatic Washer, featuring a woman's face and the product image. Text includes 'IT'S TRUE! an AGITATOR AUTOMATIC BENDIX 17995', 'Yes... It's True!', and 'WONDERTUB GUAR. 5 YRS.'.