EARL WILSON

It Happened Last Night

(By Earl Wilson)

H'ray! Hedy Lamarr's offering her Beverly Hills home for sale (only wants $150,000 for it) so she can live and love in N. Y.

Looking prettier than a paid-up annuity and harder to get than two tickets to "South Pacific," Hedy told me she decided this is the greatest city in the world.

She's free of John Loder, her British husband, now; is looking for romance and feels that if she has a N. Y. address, the postman may deliver her a U. S. Male. (Anybody interested? Any millionaire may apply).

* * *

ED WYNN'S TV WRITER, Seaman Jacobs, was walking with me when a panhandler asked him for money to buy a pint of whisky.

"O. K.," said Jacobs. "I like a man who comes right to the pint"—and handed him the money.

* * *

BASIL RATHBONE'LL LOVE THIS. He'd bought a carton of cigarets in 21, and Jerry Bern, one of the bosses, noticed that a waiter had written on the side of the carton:

"For Mr. Rat Bone."

* * *

Not caring for the food in London, Bob Goldstein postcarded Irving Hoffman, "Home was never like this—fortunately."

* * *

KINESCOPED TELEVISION—such as Los Angeles gets from N. Y.—is notoriously blurred.

Milton Berle, now in Hollywood, met a girl who was startled by his appearance. "What'd you think I looked like?" asked Berle.

"I had no idea," she said. "I'd never seen you except on television."

* * *

THE DUCHESS OF WINDSOR has annoyed the Duke lately by refusing to fancy herself up for their friends but sitting around in slacks.

Point is, the slender Duchess looks O. K. in pants whereas most women have all the sheer beauty of a mattress stuffed into a candy sack.

I repeat a deathless sentiment I wrote 4 years ago:

Dear lady, avoid slacks by all means

Unless your end justifies your jeans.

* * *

Coleman Jacoby, the comedy writer, assured his wife he'd finally invented a cure for insomnia.

"The minute I hit the bed now, I pass right out," he said.

"Ovaltine in your milk?" she asked.

"No," said Coleman, "rocks in my pillow."
