The Listener Talks Back

Drones Serve Bees, Not Radio

Of all the things in today's radic, bad as some may be, one can forgive just about everything but dullness. And dullness, in radio, tends to kill itself, for the "grey" program doesn't last long. (This may indicate that dullness, in the control of the control o ness itself is immoral, for a great philosopher once defined an immoral act as one which, if universally practiced, destroys itself.)

In all the hullabaloo about giveaway shows, those which have demonstrated that they have some entertainment value are with us and the ones without sparkle or originality or showmanship or some other saving factor are disappearing.

"Hollywood Calling." the Sunday afternoon giveaway, appears from here to hang on a precipice. Its new master of ceremonies, Jack McCoy, has enlivened it, as has the return of the prize "that money can't buy." But it still lacks the buy." But it still lacks the dramatic appeal of some of the other shows-additions to the jackpot at the end of each broadcast. Silly as some of them are, they still have a dramatic value to the audience, which accounts for the high Hooperating of the last

Joan was a country lass. Her woods. While by herself, she parents made their home in the village of Domremy, in northeastern France, but the family living came mainly from farm work. When she was a small child, she was given the duty now and then the woods.

Stories of fairies were told to children in Domremy. There was a large beech tree near the village and beside it was a fountain. Twas said that fairies gathered the woods, and elsewhere, she thought woods.

It all started, as she later said, with "a bright cloud" which appeared before her one day. Out of the cloud came a voice, saying:

This listener, for one, can keep himself tuned to a speaker or commentator with whom he disagrees—even violently—if the speaker has something to say and the ability to say it

There is one who constantly drives me away from the radio. He has all the faults that one radio speaker can have. His subject matter is suffocating stuffy, and his delivery is mon-otonous and expressionless. Occasionally, he has something controversial, and therefor interesting, to say and I inevitably disagree-but I would listen if the voice didn't drone.

The speaker appears every Saturday night Chicago Theater of the Air." He is Robert McCormick. On the opening night of the new radio season, he professed to give a brief history of radio music. This could have been interesting, without being controversial (which some of his statements were), but Col. McCormick's delivery was everything that radio speaking shouldn't be. As far as material is concerned, I should like to note two statements. about music—that World War II didn't produce any great songs because it wasn't a popular war, and that the Spanish-American war did because it was a crusade.

Col. McCormick sets himself up as an authority on history and warfare.
