On the campus, Clark was active in Harcsfoot, Badger, White Spades, and Chi Phi activities. He was a contemporary of another Badger who has gone far in the theater - Don Brotherson, now k..own as Eric Brotherson.

Clark's 14 active years in the theater began with a bit part in the Eva LeGallienne production of "L'Aiglon." This was followed by the role of Gustave in "Camille. During the next year he started a successful association with the Theater Guild, stage-managing "End of Summer" and appearing in "Storm Over Patsy" with Sara Allgood and "The Ghost of Yankee Doodle" with Ethel Barrymore and Dudley Digges. In the 1938-39 season, he played leading roles for the Federal Theater until the Guild called on him to pinch-hit for Franchot Tone in "The Fifth Column.

While playing in "George Washington Slept Here" Clark was drafted, and in the five years that followed took part in the Normandy invasion and other campaigns in the ETO.
