Trinify Players 'Thaw' Crowd, Score Hit Again

By BOB ALDRIDGE

San Antonio Express Staff Writer Prinity University Players Trinity kept 'em laughing Friday night. The group presented its second play of the season at San Pedro Playhouse. It was "January Thaw," a comedy in three acts by William Roos.

A definite change of pace from the mystery-thriller offered last month, a practically all-new cast made the enjoyable lines of the farce hum most all the way.

The story concerned the Gage family. Writer Gage had moved to the country in Connecticut. where he could, he thought, write books in peace and quiet. Complications set in with igor when the former owners. crochety old couple, moved back into their home-despite its purchase by the Gages—and

The fur flew. But it all added up to good fun for the audience. And the young Trinity players did a nighty good job of it.

The vary few slow spots were divided about evenly between 11:30 A.M. material and players, we thought. While the actors consistently were well cast, one offered a sharply drawn characterization that was well above average. He was Bill Swinney as Old Man Rockwood. His makeup, mannerisms, voice, carriage, young college student. His performance was real acting. . and was funny as the harassed KMAC-7 P.M. author and father, and Bruce Nell Heormann was quite convincing as the pretty and pur-turbed Mrs. Gage. We liked Mary Cathey as the noisy, self-assertive maid, and Mazie Chamberlain as sweet old Mrs. Rockwood.

Also smartly helping along the action were Diane McKee and Ermine French as the two Gage brats: Fred Miller and Ivar Waits as the lovers; Bill Hayes as Matt Rockwood; Durward Hargett as the lawyer; Bud Jen-kins as Uncle Walter, and Frank Lassiter as the police chief.

Faculty supervisors were Mrs. ucile Todd, director; C. M. Statham, technical director, who built the good-looking livingroom set from workshop odds and ends, and Miss Betty Jean Worman, costumes and make-up. E. C. McCarty is head of Trinity speech department,
