Television in Color Seen Year Away, Perhaps Longer

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. (AP) Experts who should know that at the present rate, at least a year, possibly two, must elapse before color television can be ready to start as a public service.

This is based on the amount of time being required for the hearings of the Federal Communications Commission, for research and for testing. The present FCC sessions on color started Sept. 26 and since then 28 sittings have been held. Page after page of testimony has been offered in evidence along with tests of two projected systems, those of R. C. A. and C. B. S. The hearings are now in recess until Feb. 6 for further tests in which equipment of Color Television, Inc., is scheduled for inclusion. Meantime, the FCC, has asked the interested groups to let in the public an intensified field tests by making temporary sets available immediately.

After the hearings are concluded the commission will have to make a thorough study of the reams of data, set up standards for operation and the like. Involved is the matter of determining the system upon which these standards are to be based. Should the commission decide against making a pick, it might throw the whole matter back to the industry for a solution under a time limit. Then, after standards finally are set, more time will be required to make ready for public service operation. This will include manufacture and installation of color transmitter units.

'The Mikado' on Air Show Next Monday

A just at officials why try to take on too much authority is the theme of Gilbert & Sullivan's great comic opera, "The Mikado," starring Gordon MacRae, Kenny Baker and Evelyn Case, Monday over NBC 8:30 to 9:00 p. m. Ranking easily as one of the best-liked of all operettas, "The Mikado" contains some of Gilbert & Sullivan's most popular songs, including "If You Want To Know Who We Are," "A Wandering Minstrel I," "I've Got A Little List," "Three Little Maids From School," "For He's Going To Marry Yum Yum," "The Moon And I," "Let The Punishment Fit The Crime," "The Flowers That Bloom In The Spring" and "Tit Willow," all of which are in the production. Arthur Q. Bryan, Paul Frees, Hope Emerson are in the cast. Carmen Dragon's orchestra and a chorus directed by Norman Luboff provide musical and vocal support.
