Johnny Awarded Certificate, But He Prizes Dog More

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Twelve-year-old Johnny Ross was awarded a certificate of achievement during a radio broadcast Wednesday, but it was the big German shepherd dog beside him that made him really happy.

He threw his arms around the dog's shaggy neck and said: "Major, you're the nicest Christmas present I could have."

Johnny is blind, and Major's eyes are Johnny's, too.

The boy came here with Major from his home in Minneapolis to receive an award for being the youngest person ever graduated from the Master Eye foundation, which trains guide dogs for the blind.

Until Johnny and Major became teammates, the foundation's experts had doubted that a boy his age could learn to handle a guide dog, or that the delicate relationship between boy and dog could survive the hurdles both encounter.

Johnny's certificate was presented him by Bishop Bernard J. Sheil of Chicago, who is president of the foundation. Sheil said he always had felt that children could learn to form the necessary relationship with a guide dog.

"This is a reflection of something we have looked forward to for 15 years," he said.

Johnny knelt beside Major, hugged the dog and said:

"Shake hands with the bishop, Major."

The dog offered his paw and the bishop leaned down gravely and shook it.

Major's shaggy neck and said: "Major, you're the nicest Christmas present I could have."

weeks ago, saying it wasn't right for him.

June Havoc is going to have to answer charges before the Screen Actors' Guild. Producer W. Lee Wilder, for whom she just finished "The Iron Cage," says Havoc caused havoc on the sets during the filming with Cesar Romero and Marie McDonald; refused to take direction and caused costly delays. Wilder insists June be made to pay for them.

Al Jolson sails for Honolulu today and will do several shows to entertain our servicemen in Hawaii during the Christmas holidays.

Eleanor Powell, who loved the taste of her "comeback" with a small role in "The Duchess of Idaho," is going to go after rebuilding her movie career again in a big way.

When Douglas Fowley and John Ridgley reported for their roles in "Edge of Doom" the other day, both were wearing mustache.

Seventy-year-old Ethel Barrymore has just had her option lifted by Metro. Which means this studio will have her services for at least another year.

First job coming up for Ethel: One of the top spots in "Showboat," which will have a huge all-star cast.

Incidentally, this studio recently signed Keefe Braselle, (Ida Lupino's discovery) a virtual newcomer to pictures—and he starts his contract there the moment he finishes his role in "A Place in the Sun" with Elizabeth Taylor. AND it's too bad—but the lad is already taking his good fortune too big!
