TIP OF THE MORNING: Radio sources and Washington dopesters agree that the state department's "Voice of America" will be louder than ever, thanks to an expected increase in appropriations when congressmen reconvene.

Christmas Eve services will be broadcast this year from three Madison churches—First Methodist, St. Bernard's Catholic, and St. James' Catholic. The first will be carried by WISC, the second by WFOV, and the third by WIBA.

The Christmas Eve service of the First-University Methodist church and Wesley foundation at First church will be broadcast at 11:15. It will include carols and a message by Bishop H. Clifford Northcott.

A program of carols will precede the mass at St. Bernard's. This music will go on WFOV at 11:30, while the mass will begin at 12. Ray Tierney will direct a 58-voice choir, the Rev. Jerome Mersberger will be celebrant of the mass, and Steve Clark will be commentator for the radio audience.

The St. James choir, directed by Marie A. Endres, will sing for the first time a mass composed by Olive Endres, her sister. It is "Missa ad Honorem Reginae Paolis," based on the propers of the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, and is dedicated to the choir.

The composer will play a new three-manual memorial organ at the service. Before the WIBA broadcast of the mass, a 30-minute program of carols will be given for the congregation by the 35-voice choir and a string ensemble made up of members of the Madison Civic Symphony orchestra, of which Marie Endres is assistant conductor.

The Rev. John A. Koelzer will be celebrant of the mass. This is the fourth mass composed by Miss Endres. All are based on Gregorian propers incidental to feasts, with six sections each—"Kyrie Eleison," "Gloria," "Credo," "Sanctus," "Benedictus," and "Agnus Dei." Like the new mass, the others had their first performances at Christmas Eve services in St. James' church and were dedicated to the choir.

The carols to be played before the mass will be performed in arrangements by Miss Endres, some of which have been published by G. Schirmer Co.

TWINS DISCOVER SEASON'S DOUBLE VALUE! Both Give and Serve CARSTAIRS

Royce Blackburn* says: "THIS SEASON, I'M GIVING CARSTAIRS" *Great Neck, L. I.

Ramon Blackburn* says: "THIS SEASON, I'M SERVING CARSTAIRS" *Great Neck, L. I.

THIS year, the Blackburn twins are giving and serving Carstairs, because it's the whiskey with double-value—premium flavor at a popular price.

Make Carstairs your choice, too... you'll be pleasantly surprised at the reasonable cost of this distinguished whiskey... you will want to give and serve Carstairs to more of your friends than ever before.

They'll know you're a Man who Cares... when they taste the smooth and mellow flavor of the perfectly balanced blend. So... for the Season's best... give and serve Carstairs!
