U.S. Official To Explain New Pay Act

KTSA to Carry Two Broadcasts On Vital Measure

The amendments to the Fair Labor Standards Act (federal wage and hour law) will be explained in detail by a representative of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, U.S. Department of Labor, in two special programs to be broadcast over KTSA Saturday, and on Saturday, Jan. 14.

The broadcasts, which will be presented at 2 p.m., have been designed primarily for employers and employees in this area who are affected by the changes. The amendments are effective Jan. 25.

Appearing for the agency charged with the administration and enforcement of the act as amended by the Eighty-first Congress will be Jack G. High, who represents the divisions in this area.

Among the topics he will discuss are (1) the new 75-cent minimum wage; (2) changes in the method of computing overtime pay; (3) coverage under the original act and the amendments; (4) new and changed exemptions from the wage or hour provisions, or both; child labor; (5) a new definition for the regular rate of pay; (6) new tests for determining what retail and service establishments are exempt; (7) the right of the Administrator to sue for back wages; (8) annual wage plans and, (9) exemptions for employees of certain logging operators, agricultural irrigation workers, telephone operators, newsboys, taxicab drivers, and others.

Gen. Wallender Ends Long Army Career

San Antonio's colony of retired generals has adopted another member upon the retirement of Brig. Gen. Elmer F. Wallender, only recently commander of the San Antonio General Depot.

The general has purchased a site on Grandview Place in Terrell Hills and hopes to start construction on his home soon. Enlisted in 1914

Gen. Wallender was born in Lamar County in 1889 and moved with his family at an early age to the Indian Territory which is now Oklahoma. He came back to Dallas to enlist in the Army in 1914 and was sent to Fort Logan, Colo., to start his military career as a private.

The general has since served in all grades from private to brigadier-general and has traveled world-wide in the execution of his duties.

He saw service on the Mexican border during 1914 and 1915, after which he was sent to the Philippine Islands. After service in the Philippines and China during World War I he returned to the states in 1919.

Under MacArthur World War II found Gen. Wallender in the southwest Pacific under Gen. MacArthur. He commanded supply bases at Milne Bay, Finschafen, Hollandia, New Guinea and at Leyte in the Philippines.

The greater part of Gen. Wallender's service was in the Infantry—having served in the First, Eighth, 15th, 21st and 23rd regiments. The Eighth and 15th regiments were a part of the Philippine Department, the 21st a part of the Hawaiian Division, while the First and 23rd regiments were a part of the Second Division. In 1937 he was transferred to the Quartermaster Corps in which he has served since.

Gen. Wallender was decorated with the Legion of Merit for outstanding performance of duty at Milne Bay. He also wears the Asiatic-Pacific ribbon with three campaign stars, the Philippine Liberation ribbon with one campaign star, the American Defense, World War I and World War II Victory medals.

Gen. Wallender and family plan to take a sight-seeing trip to the West coast and the New England states after which they will return to the Alamo City.

Other newly elected officers of the San Antonio Charro Assn. include Leopoldo Garza, first vice-president; Jose S. Arizola, second vice-president; Ted Gonzalez, treasurer; Manuel Gonzalez Ortega, secretary; Arturo Duran, sub-secretary, and Dave Hernandez, standard bearer.

Elected to the board of directors are Col. Edward Stollie, John A. Esquivel, Jesus Cordova, E. D. Cardiel, Jose Casanova, Manuel Calvillo, Dave Hernandez, Fortunato de los Santos, Jose Olivares and Peter D. Reed.

Nunez succeeds Jose Casanova at the helm of the group.

COMMUNION SUNDAY Communion Sunday will be observed at the 11 a.m. service Sunday at the Beacon Hill Presbyterian Church. Dr. Arthur V. Board, pastor, will speak on "Communion or Communism."

56,550 Airmen Trained At Lackland in 1949

Lackland, the "Gateway to the Air Force," sent 56,550 airmen and WAF's on their way up the ladder of a career in the country's air arm during the past year.

The airmen completed a 13-week basic course, while 2,451 WAF's spent 11 weeks "getting their feet on the ground."

And while many were just getting started in the Air Force, still others at Lackland were studying to get those coveted "gold bars."

A total of 451 male and 33 female OCS candidates graduated at the Air Force Officer Candidate School during 1949. The year also saw the start of co-education training at the school. The first class, known as 49-A, was composed of 236 male students and 16 WAF's. The second class, 49-B, had 215 men and 17 WAF's graduate.

The GI Joes and Janes at Lackland helped also in the history-making of the past year. January saw the opening of the collegiate center there by the Trinity University. Since then, many airmen have enrolled in the school's classes to further their education.

In February, Col. Malcolm N. Stewart was appointed base commander. In March, the base was reorganized and went under the command of Brig. Gen. Charles Born. Then in April, the present commander, Maj. Gen. Charles W. Lawrence, took the reigns of Lackland.

Also in February, Lackland officials were amazed when an 18-year-old basic trainee performed an "impossible" feat by making a perfect score on the Air Force's new intelligence test.

In March the service's new blue uniform was seen for the first time around the Alamo City when aviation cadets were issued the colorful new uniform. And in April, airmen took needle in hand and put the new Air Force chevrons on their sleeves.

In August, thousands of Viteles airmen from the Berlin Airlift besieged Lackland for reassignment. Screening teams from the base were sent overseas bases to screen the returnees and speed the work of distributing the airmen.

In October the WAF's at Lackland took over for a day when they celebrated their first anniversary—marked by a big retreat parade and the cutting of a huge birthday cake.

In November, Lackland gave its basics a third "R" in learning with the addition of 55 hours of mathematics to the basic training course.

Early in December, Billy Mitchell Village, the nation's largest military housing project, located between Kelly and Lackland bases, was officially opened for inspection. Movement into the first of the apartments is expected shortly after the first of the year.

And for a suitable climax to the year's activities, Lackland's 60-piece "Air Force Band of the West" trekked to Hollywood to become the center of attraction for the world's premier of "Twelve O'Clock High," a movie about the Air Force.

Satisfied with your present Will?

- Safety, Courtesy, Promptness

If you have any mental reservations concerning your present will, it is important to talk them over with your attorney and have him re-draw your will so that it takes care of every contingency.

Neither your executor nor the court should be expected to read between the lines or carry out your unwritten wishes.

May we suggest that before having your attorney re-draft your will, you give careful consideration to the choice of the executor or trustee who—at some future time—must carry out its provisions. We shall be happy to discuss with you and your attorney our qualifications for handling Texas estates.
