Bill Boardman's SPOTLIGHT
Names in the News

TIP O' THE MORNING: We could be wrong, but we'll guess that the "phantom voice" on "Sing It Again" belongs to a tennis star.

As announced here prematurely, "Hollywood Calling" is off the NBC schedule. In its place at 6 p. m. Sunday will be Glenn Ford in a new series, "Christopher London," based on detective stories by Eric Stanley Gardner. (By the way, what became of that NBC rule about no mysteries on daytime or early evening schedules?)
Milt Thompson, young Madison singer, and the Feather Rhythm orchestra now have two regular radio spots. They're on WKOW at 10:30 p. m. Thursdays and Saturdays. The Saturday show comes from Hotel Edgewater's Club Rigodon, and includes occasional guest interviews; the Thursday program is recorded at the club, and aired a few nights afterward.
Recommended listening: Ronald Colman and Mrs. Colman in "The Halls of Ivy" on NBC-WIBA Friday nights.
Fred Allen is said to be planning to film his television idea to test and study them before he goes on video.
Alexander Sved, due here Feb. 21 and 22 for concerts at the Wisconsin Union theater, will be in
