

The Sunday Spotlight Running The Risk

By WILLIAM L. DOUDNA (State Journal Radio Editor) A suggestion from a member of the federal communications commission that perhaps there should be a way of censoring radio programs has already had some effect.

As a matter of fact, I intended some weeks ago to go into this thing, but decided to wait until there was more evidence at hand.

Uncle Ray's Corner Hot Water Out of Ground

It may seem strange to find hot water outdoors in the country called Iceland, but that can be done. It is done as a regular thing, not in just one place but in many.

The island has been called "the Land of Ice and Fire." That is a fairly good name. The mountains are capped with snow and ice the year around, but on the other hand there are scores of active volcanoes.

panies must buy film; telephone and telegraph firms must put up wires; but radio uses invisible and unpurchaseable vibrations. The air through which they travel belongs to all of us, which means that we—represented by government—have the right and duty of supervision to see that the use is proper.

But all the censorship isn't up to radio. Some of it must be exercised by parents. Granted, this is difficult. Nevertheless, it is necessary. Most parents try to control children's reading and movie-going; fewer try to do anything about radio listening.

Today are lava fields. The lava even in mid-winter. There are hardened into rock when it cooled. One lava field has an area of 1,200 square miles.

Polio Fails to Ground Flying Enthusiast

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — (UP) — Polio that crippled nearly one-half of his body for 21 of his 22 years couldn't keep Sidney Hamrick from his first love, flying a plane. Hamrick had his own landing strip built at his home 15 miles from here. Then he took flying lessons and bought a plane. He uses his right foot and his two hands to operate the controls. "I expect to get my full private ticket so I can fly my friends one of these days," he said. "I'll have to fly a little longer alone than others and then get a special waiver. But I'll get it." Hamrick, who clerks in a grocery, is married and has a son 22 months old.
