Fair Exchange May Prove to Be Very Good Bargain

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
ACCORDING to the old proverb, fair exchange is no robbery. In today's hand, South discovered that fair exchange was actually a very good bargain.

West opened the queen of clubs, and South thought before he acted. It was a good thing for him that he did so.
It was quite clear that West had most of the missing high cards for his spade bid. Therefore South had to reckon on losing the finesse in trumps. Moreover, if East ever got the chance to lead, he would push a spade through South, and West would take two tricks in that suit. South also had to reckon on losing a diamond trick.
Having noted that he would probably lose four tricks (one more than he could afford) South looked for a way out. The only chance was to set up dummy's long diamond suit. This suit had to be established without allowing East to win a trick in it. So South allowed West to win that first trick with the queen of clubs!
West continued clubs (no other lead would have made a difference), and South won with his king. Declarer led a diamond to dummy's king and returned the jack of hearts for a finesse. This lost, of course, to West's king.
West returned a heart, and dummy won with the nine. Declarer then led dummy's ace of clubs, discarding a diamond from his own hand.
This was the second half of the fair exchange that South had begun at the first trick. He had
