The Sunday Spotlight:

News From the FM Front

Ever since a Milwaukee newspaper knocked its two FM (frequency modulation) stations off the air, there has been a lot of comment and gossip about the future of FM stations.

First of all, I'd like to scotch one rumor that has had considerable circulation. This report said that the state radio council had abandoned construction of one of its transmitters; some people even said that somebody in the capitol (they were never definite about this) had withdrawn the funds with which the tower was being built. From such things as weather de such rumors start. As a matter of fact, weather and road condi-tions were so bad that the tower crew couldn't work for a while and moved, temporarily, to another job in a pleasanter climate. The men's return depended on the weather—not on capitol

Other news from the FM front:

At least one and probably two major set manufacturers are expected to push manufacture and sale of FM receivers this year. While there has been nothing official about this the information comes from sources so good that it is far above the
