By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK. (AP) America's amateur "hams"—the boys and a few of the girls who have played such an important role in the field of wireless and radio—are switching part of their attention to television. Some even have their own stations, like they do for code and phone.

Both live pictures and test paterns have been transmitted. The channel used is 420 megacycles, outside of the regular TV assignments. Equipment is similar to that employed in commercial tele casting, but modified within amateur requirements. perimental interest in television is Milton Cooper of W6QT at
