The Army has a little more than 100,000 men in Europe. The largest force, some 85,500, is in Germany. About 10,000 troops are in Austria and 5000 at Trieste.

Some 8000 Army troops were recently reported as stationed in Hawaii and 6500 in Alaska Army forces in the Caribbean area—Puerto Rico and the Panama Canal Zone—number some 14,000.

The United States has a vast reservoir of trained military manpower.

Veterans Administration figures indicate there are 15,370,000 living veterans of World War II. There are 2,259,000 in the youngest age bracket—20 to 24 years old—and 5,187,000 in the 25 to 29. In the 20 to 24 age group 171,000 are listed as drawing payments for a service disability.
