West had opened the king of west nad opened the king of spades, dummy winning with the ace. The hand looked like a "planola" as Generous George, playing the South cards, began to draw trumps.
When West discarded a club when west discarded a club on the second round of trumps, George stopped abruptly. It was time for a little thought. If South continued to draw all of East's trumps, he would then have only one trump left in his own hand. When he led diamonds, the enemy would be able to lead a spade, forcing out the to lead a spade, forcing out the last trump. They would surely round of diamonds, allowing gain the lead with the second East to trump with the nine of high diamond to cash the rest of hearts. George could have taken their spades. Since South, could this trick away from East by their spades. Since South could this tric not make 10 tricks without get drawing ting a diamond, it was clear that as we could not afford to draw drawing the trumps earlier, but as we have seen, drawing trumps would have cost him the contract.

After trumping the third round of diamonds, East was helpless. He returned a fourth spade, but dummy was able to ruff this trick. This, of course, was the reason George had abandoned the trumps. He wanted to leave one trump in dummy to and leave one trump in dummy to act ventually as a barrier against the spades. George re-entered his hand with the ace of clubs and could then afford to draw East's last trump. The rest of the tricks, of ourse, were easy.
