Discards Should Be Studied as Tip to Opponents' Plans

By OSWALD JACOBY Written for NEA Service

"This may sound a little stupid ed out that his play would have to you," writes a Canadian cor- been very good if the queen of respondent, "We can't tell what spades really had been a single-

"West opened the seven of spades, the king was played from dummy, and East dropped the east player. Dropping the queen of spades didn't look like an exceptionally smart play to me. It's just the sort of false card that you might try twice every day and three times on Sunday.

"Be that as it may, it had big effect on South. He drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and king, and then led the ten of spades from his hand. West naturally played a low spade, and declarer let the ten ride for a finesse to me.
