DIAL LITES - TONIGHT

5:30-KFI-The contemporary American composer, Leroy Anderson, will be honored on the "Starlight Concert" tonight. Orchestra leader, Carmen Dragon, will lead the ensemble in selections from Anderson's compositions.

6:00-KNX-"Life With Luigi" is once more a pressing problem. He needs new stock for his antique shop, but lacks funds to purchase more. His attempts to raise the money make another amusing chapter in this pathetic fellow's life.

7:00-KECA-Jack Armstrong extends his scope to the S. B. I. described as a new bureau, signifying Scientific Bureau of Investigation, to combat current dangers to national security.

8:30-KNX-"Mr. and Mrs. North" return from a vacation to plunge heading into the "Million-Dollar Murder." The clues are sketchy, but the criminals soon get their comeuppance.

9:30-KHJ-An unsuspecting young girl, whose father is using her as a lure in a shady racket, tells her story to Dan Britt of the "Official Detective" broadcast.

TELE-TIPS

6:30-KFI-The contest and end of all contests will be introduced by Eddie Conitz tonight. . . . Photographs of auto license plates will be shown. If you can identify your own you get a prize. . . . But the odds seem pretty high on this one.

7:00-KHJ-"Circle the Globe" and stop you know not where. . . . but if you do there is a prize in store for you on this program, too.

7:00-KTLA-Pictures from the Korean front plus developments in the international situation will be shown on "Newsreel" tonight.

8:00-KTSL-Romantic and musical Brazil is the theme of tonight's "Starlight Time." The programmed Latin tunes include "Madame La Zonga," and a "Rainy Night in Rio."

Smart Play Can Often Beat Opposing Team's High Cards

By OSWALD JACOBY
Editor for News

"ISN'T this the worst luck in the world?" Hard Luck Joe asked indignantly. "I'm lucky to pick up as much as two queens, and everybody who plays against me gets all the aces and the kings he wants."

"Stop complaining," said East. "You had enough just then to stop the game. If you don't know enough to make the best use of the cards you get, you have no right to complain about your luck."

Joe's face was a study in outraged innocence. He couldn't see what he had done to deserve such a rebuke.

Joe, holding the West cards, had opened the queen of hearts. Declarer properly refused the first and second tricks in that suit but was obliged to take the third heart with his ace.

He then led a small diamond from his own hand and finessed dummy's nine. This lost to East's jack. East returned the queen of spades, but South won with the ace of spades, ran the diamonds, and then took the rest of his high cards, fulfilling his game contract.

Joe's mistake occurred when declarer led diamonds for the first time. Joe should have played his ten of diamonds!

Obviously South could not afford to let Joe hold the trick with the ten of diamonds. (Joe would have been delighted to cash the rest of his hearts.)

However, if declarer took the first diamond trick in dummy, he would be able to take only three tricks in that suit. With only three diamonds, two spades, one heart and two clubs, South would not have had enough tricks for his contract.

The opportunity for this sort of play occurs fairly often. When dummy has a long suit with no
